Report Navy task force on way to Vietnam; Pentagon says no

SAIGON (UPI) — American diplomatic sources said a U.S. Navy task force headed by the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise sailed from the Philippines in the direction of South Vietnam today hours after Communist troops inflicted a major military defeat on Saigon government troops.

The government setback came when Communists troops overran the provincial capital of Phuoc Binh, 75 miles northwest of Saigon, and thus gained control over all of Phuoc Long Province —the only South Vietnam province in Communist hands.

At the same time, Communist forces in Cambodia were posing a new threat to Phnom Penh, the capital.

The American sources said the Enterprise and the nuclear-powered guided missile cruiser Long Beach left Subic Bay in the Philippines and were to join nine smaller warships near the South Vietnamese coast by 8 a.m. Wednesday (4 p.m. PST today).

A second U.S. Navy task force led by the carrier Coral Sea also was reported operating in the South China Sea but it was not known how close it was to Vietnam waters. The Viet Cong's Giai Phong Press Agency said today in a broadcast monitored in Saigon that the Coral Sea was conducting operations off the South Vietnamese coast but it did not say where and did not say any U.S. planes were flying over Vietnam.

Legislation passed by Congress in the fall of 1973 bans U.S. armed forces from carrying out any military activity "in, over or from the shores of" any of the four states of Indochina.

The law does not prohibit U.S. planes from flying over South Vietnam, however, and military flights based in Thailand do so routinely.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington, asked about reports of the ship movements from Subic Bay, said, "There's just nothing to that." He said the Enterprise, the world's largest warship, had been scheduled to leave Subic Bay today but was not going to Vietnam waters. A U.S. Embassy source said a report the fleet would enter Vietnam waters was a "fabrication."

One American diplomatic source said the Enterprise task force was headed for the Gulf of Thailand, a huge bay-like indentation on the Indochinese coast between South Vietnam and Cambodia. Operations from that area would put the Enterprise's planes within flying distance both of Saigon and Phnom Penh, where heavy fighting also is underway.

In the past, aircraft carriers always have operated on the east side of Vietnam opposite the Gulf. The sources stressed there was no plan for the task force to enter Vietnamese territorial waters or territorial waters of any of the nations in the area.

Aircraft carriers, which build up flank speed of up to 35 knots in order to provide a wind into which to launch their planes, normally operate out of sight of any coastline. They speed in wide circles on the high seas while underway, and the 12-mile limit claim by both Vietnames and Cambodia would not provide enough operating space for the huge ships such as the Enterprise.

President Nguyen Van Thieu issued an order tonight, read by television and radio announcers, calling for three days of mourning for the dead, wounded and missing during the five-day battle for Phuoc Binh.

He condemned Communist attackers as aggressors and called on all South Vietnamese to unite to face the increased battlefield attacks.

Arabs angry

Furor mounts over opinion by Kissinger

By United Press International

Egyptian Information Minister Ahmed Magd said today he failed to understand the need or the timing of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's statement that an armed attack on oil-producing nations was a possibility if stoppage of petroleum exports threatened the existence of the industrialized world.

"We fail to understand the need or the timing for such a statement, let alone the merits or context of the statement," he said. "First there is no threat of even a partial stoppage of the flow of oil to the West or other parts of the world.

"It is doubtful in my mind that any world power would take any extreme measures."

The minister said Egypt shared the view of Algerian President Houari Boumedienne, who said Monday that the only solution was a dialogue to establish fair prices which would benefit both sides in the oil dispute.

Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat said Monday Arab oil countries would blow up their wells rather than let the United States seize the installations to protect western economies.

"The United States is dangling a threat to intervene militarily to occupy oil wells," the leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization told the Paris newspaper Le Monde in an interview published Monday.

The guerrilla chief said, however, that the U.S. officials "envisaging such an operation" are "losing sight of two decisive factors."

"For one thing, the Arabs would blow up their oil wells, and for another the United States does not boss the world," he said. "We can count on the support of powerful allies in the international community."

Arafat's statement was the latest in a mounting outcry by Arab leaders and news media against remarks last week by Kissinger.

In an interview with Business Week magazine, Kissinger raised the possibility of military intervention against oil producing states if an embargo resulted in "some actual strangulation of the industrialized world."

In Moscow, the Communist party newspaper Pravda accused Western "monopoly circles" of fanning an oil war but said attempts "to employ the bankrupt gunboat policy are doomed to failure."

"Positive tendencies which have become apparent in international relations in recent years make it imperative to look for solutions to world problems, including economic ones, by the development of cooperation on an equal footing between all countries," Pravda said.

At London airport

Man takes over plane; stewardess held hostage

LONDON (UPI) — A gunman took over a British Airways BAC111 at Heathrow International Airport today and police said he was holding a stewardess hostage in an apparent hijack attempt.

The jet had landed at Heathrow at 2:40 p.m. (9:40 a.m.) and remained sitting on one of the airport's main runways while the gunman made his intentions known.

An airport spokesman said all passengers had disembarked after the aircraft's arrival from Manchester on an internal flight. It was not immediately known how many crew members were aboard.

"He says he wants to go to Paris," an airline spokesman said. "It's one of the more extraordinary ones. I've never heard of one like this before."

A police car pulled up alongside the twin-jet plane and, through the radio, policemen tried to convince the man to surrender.

There were 46 passengers aboard the plane when it landed, the airline spokesman said, and they had been screened for weapons and explosives before takeoff from Manchester.

They disembarked at the end of the runway.

"All we know is that the plane came in from Manchester and after the passengers left, there was this man on board with a gun and he was holding one of the hostesses hostage," he said.

Ford definite on tax slash, but still mulling its size

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has decided on a tax cut to stimulate the economy but still is mulling over the size, administration sources said today.

He plans to recommend a $1 to $3 per barrel tax on imported crude oil to reduce consumption as part of the intertwined economy-energy program he will submit to Congress in the Jan. 20 State of the Union address.

Estimates of a tax cut range from 5 to 10 per cent. Much depends on how much Ford figures will be needed to stimulate the economy.

Sources said the President's program to deal with the recession will not be a "block buster" but it will be "hard-nosed" and tough. They did say "It will be significant and impressive in displaying the President's leadership."

Ford has made some tentative decisions but still wants further study, he said. William Simon, the Treasury Secretary, William Seidman, executive director of his Economic Policy Board, and others were summoned to a morning meeting with the President.

Ford called a conference later today with Defense Secretary James Schlesinger who asked for an appointment on an undisclosed subject. The Pentagon budget is expected to be as high as $95 billion because of inflationary defense costs. Schlesinger also is a former head of the CIA.

Ford will send the fiscal 1976 federal budget to Congress around Feb. 3. By Jan. 20, he expects to have announced all his major decisions on government spending.

Orders funds released for 1,500 jobs

Brown aids jobless in initial action

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — In his first major action as governor, Edmund G. Brown Jr. has assigned an executive order to take advantage of $15 million in federal funds to create about 1,500 state public service jobs.

The order triggered California's participation in the federal Employment and Training Act of 1973, which is designed to stem rising unemployment.

About 787,600 persons are employed in California now with a jobless rate of 9 per cent —one of the highest levels since the Great Depression.

Former Gov. Ronald Reagan had begun some spadework on the program but it largely had lain fallow until Brown succeeded Reagan Monday.

"We are going to use to the fullest the millions of dollars available to put Californians back to work," Brown said in his unaugural address. "We are going to cooperate with local government and industry to create as many new jobs as humanly possible."

Brown set Jan. 30 as a target date for the hiring of at least 500 of the 1,500 new state employes, who will be exempt from the civil service but eligible for state health and retirement benefits. The salary range will be $600 to $833 per month.

In addition, he noted an extra 12,500 state positions may be created by an extra $100,000 made available by a recently enacted federal jobs program.

Under the 1973 act, $122 million was made available to cities and counties last July to hire unemployed persons for public service jobs.

But some local agencies were unable to spend the funds as quickly as they were pouring in, explained Bob Gnaizda, deputy secretary of health and welfare under Brown.

The executive order will permit the state to negotiate with the cities and counties to spend the excess cash, which otherwise could revert to the federal government.

Gnaizda said Reagan aides were "indifferent and some were antagonistic" to getting involved in the federal program, so little was done before Brown's inauguration to attract the revenues.

At first, he said, the employes will be hired primarily to take care of paperwork logjams.

But eventually, Gnaizda added, they will be employed for more creative tasks such as building new parks or designing sculpture and art work for state buildings.

Space junk might hit earth Friday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Scientists expect an 83,500-pound chunk of "space junk" to plunge toward Earth about Friday. But how much will survive a burning trip through the atmosphere —and where it will hit —no one knows, space officials said Monday.

The junk is the S2 stage of the Saturn rocket which launched Skylab into orbit in May of 1973. The S2 went into orbit 100 miles above Earth after the launch but the orbit has been "decaying" ever since under pull of the Earth's gravity.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Monday, when asked, that pieces of the S2 could fall anywhere within a 250,000-square-mile area circling the globe. They estimated that as many as 50 pieces of the S2 might survive the searing plunge through the atmosphere and hit Earth.

Temblor too deep to cause trouble

PASO ROBLES, Calif. (UPI) — A moderate earthquake that rumbled harmlessly through a stretch of the central California coast was centered too deep in the earth to cause damage, seismologists said Monday.

The temblor, which rattled dishes and shook people awake in several farming communities, measured 4.8 on the Richter Scale and was centered just seven miles east of here.

Medicine cabinet buyers warned of shock hazards

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission said today 9,000 medicine cabinets sold since last September may have a shock hazard involving a built-in electrical outlet.

The agency issued a warning telling the owners of the Sears and Kent brands medicine cabinets to return them to the place of purchase for a refund or replacement.

The commission said the problem involves an electrical outlet which can use either a two-prong or a three-prong plug.

Because of a defect, it said, persons using an appliance with a three-prong plug, which would otherwise assure it of being grounded, may not be grounded and could be exposed to a shock from the appliance, the cabinet, or other places in the bathroom where the appliance might be used.

There is also a potential shock hazard if the cabinet itself is not properly installed, the commission said.

No injuries have been reported.

The cabinets sold for from $50 to $150, depending on the model, in Sears stores coast to coast and in independent stores under the Kent brand east of Salt Lake City.

The Sears models were identified as Nos. (all with 861 prefix) 38530, 38540, 38550, 38710, 38800, 38541, and 38551. The Kent models, all with the letter "L" as a prefix, are: GO-1216, WO1216, GO-1420, SO-1420, WO-1420, G-CAR-1420, W-CAR-1420, COA1420, CRE-1420, CEO-1420, LEX1420, WIL-1420 and SOM-1420.

The agency said the numbers are on nameplates underneath the bottom shelf. It said anyone needing help in removing the cabinet from the wall should contact a Sears store or the store from which the Kent models were purchased.

Thrown against building

Area horseman dies in freak accident

A former rodeo rider was killed Monday afternoon when his horse bolted and threw him against a building at the Maclin-Caldwell Auction, 7423 Riverside Drive, Ontario.

George A. Metzer, 26, of 7423½ Riverside Drive, Ontario, employed as a cowboy for the auction business, was pronounced dead-on-arrival at the Ontario Community Hospital shortly after the 1:30 p.m. accident, said Bill Hill, San Bernardino County coroner.

According to witnesses, Metzer was riding his horse near his home when it suddenly bolted and ran toward a building. The witnesses said they heard a "thud" and found Metzer on the ground with a severe head injury.

The coroner's office said the exact cause of Metzer's death has not been determined, but he had suffered a massive head injury.

Metzer, according to the witnesses, was riding his horse bareback at the time of the accident.

Metzer is survived by his wife of only two months, Mrs. Donna Metzer. Funeral services are pending at Todd Memorial Chapel, Pomona.

Your income tax

By RAY DE CRANE

Every American worker not now covered by an approved company pension program, or an organized retirement system, may now design his own retirement plan.

He can set aside as much as $1,500 a year in a special retirement account. The money so set aside is fully deductible on his income tax return. Furthermore, all the interest or other earnings on his retirement nest egg are tax-exempt during his working years.

It is not until after retirement, when he starts to draw benefits, that the money becomes taxable. By that time, because of his reduced income and double exemptions, the tax rate will be lower than when the funds were being accumulated.

The full impact of this is appreciated when it is viewed as an offer from the U.S. Treasury to give you an extra 25 cents for every dollar you save.

That is exactly what it amounts to if you are in a 25 per cent tax bracket. You get the added bonus by the savings on your income tax bill. If you are in a 20 per cent tax bracket it will be a 20 per cent bonus.

Remember that this tax break applies only to those not now covered by a pension program.

The funds so set aside cannot be withdrawn before retirement — age 59½ at the earliest — or they become immediately taxable and a 10 per cent tax penalty is incurred.

But for those who regularly save under the program, the speedy growth in the tax-sheltered accounts is almost unbelievable.

A typical example of the fund's growth and the monthly retirement benefits it provides will be illustrated in tomorrow's installment.

Economic situation

Catholic study claims most Americans powerless

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new poverty study by an arm of the U.S. Catholic Church says most Americans today can no longer afford an average home.

The basic cause of poverty in America, according to the report, is the powerlessness of people over their political and economic institutions.

"The richest 10 per cent of the U.S. population receives the same total income as the bottom 50 per cent, and the top 1 per cent receives more income than the bottom 20 per cent of American citizens," the report said.

In the present economic situation, the report said, "the average American can no longer afford the average American home."

The study, to be published in February by the Roman Catholic Campaign for Human Development, says more than half of all Americans are "essentially dependent" upon social insitutions over which they have no control.

Citing government statistics, the report said private control of corporate assets, sales and production is now so highly concentrated that inflation, joblessness and product shortages inevitably result.

Illustrating the growing concentration of economic power with Internal Revenue Service statistics and other data, the report said the top 1.2 per cent of American families hold 32.5 times more investment assets than the bottom 60 per cent of American households. It also said 1.6 per cent of America's corportations control 75 per cent of all manufacturing assets.

"Productive capability and benefitting from society's wealth are not primarily tied to work, but to ownership of productive resources," the report said. "But the majority of American citizens have only their labor as their primary resources."

The report said the present American economic system "guarantees inflation" and stimulates the concentration of wealth rather than equitable distribution. It suggested land reform, tax reform, stronger anti-trust legislation and redistribution of income as possible remedies.

State lawmakers react favorably to Brown's talk

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two days ago Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. did not have a prepared inaugural address to the people of California.

U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston, who was with him, said even on the eve of his swearing in, Brown still was reading over previous inaugural speeches dating back 60 years and found the same promises over and over again, some of which still haven't been met.

So he discarded grand promises in the Monday address, kept it short and businesslike, and spoke from notes on index cards.

The reaction today in the legislature generally was favorable. Brown's fellow Democrats were enthusiastic and even some Republicans found words of praise.

"He's not going to have any problems making friends in the legislature, and today he showed it," said Senate Finance Committee Chairman Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Los Angeles.

Other Democratic leaders called it "refreshing," "exciting" and "excellent."

Republicans, the minority in both houses, reacted cautiously to Brown's proposals, but were complimentary on the tone of the eight-minute talk.

"I am pleased he intends to cut out excessive costs in government said Assembly Republican Leader Robert Beverly of Manhattan Beach. "His speech even had a little bit of a Ronald Reagan ring."

A crowd of 750 packed the century-old Assembly chamber for the ceremony. Brown received the traditional standing ovation as he entered and exited, and was interrupted five times by applause, whoops and whistles.

Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, introduced Brown, and later said he was "especially pleased" the governor emphasized economic problems. McCarthy worried that unemployment could reach 10 per cent by next summer.

Brown won the praise of lawmakers from both parties because, as Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, explained, he asked for programs rather than demanding them.

British probe sale of U.S. Army manual

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard said today it is studying a U.S. Army field manual that a newspaper said gives detailed descriptions of how to make bombs and boobytraps and is openly on sale in Britain.

"We've got a copy of the book," a Yard spokesman said.

3,000 seeking federal aid jobs pack L.A. City Hall

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—More than 3,000 unemployed workers jammed three floors of City Hall Monday to apply for jobs offered through federal emergency job programs.

At least 2,500 jobs —ranging from street address curb painters to administrative assistant positions requiring college degrees —are available through $39.2 million in federal funds.

The jobs are funded by the Department of Labor through the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. Included is $21.1 million for Los Angeles and $18.1 million for Los Angeles County.

Dave Gawronski, senior personnel analyst for the city, said 5,000 applications have been distributed at City Hall since the Christmas Eve announcement of the program.

Because of the crush of more than 3,000 applicants Monday, Gawronski said, special overload locations were set up on three floors in City Hall.

County officials also reported a high volume of job requests.

Both city and county switchboards were inundated with calls from those interested in the jobs.

The county filled the more than 1,600 positions available. The city will continue to take applications for at least a few more days, Gawronski said.

Actual placement into city and county jobs will begin Friday, most jobs lasting for one year and paying up to $10,000 per year.

In addition to the job placement program, the federal funds will expand the ongoing job training program to rehabilitate disadvantaged persons. Approximately 3,000 persons are now undergoing this training and about 10,000 will be added during the year.

Three priority groups considered for employment under the program are:

—Unemployed workers who have exhausted or are about to exhaust their unemployment benefits.

—Unemployed workers who were in jobs which have no such benefit provisions.

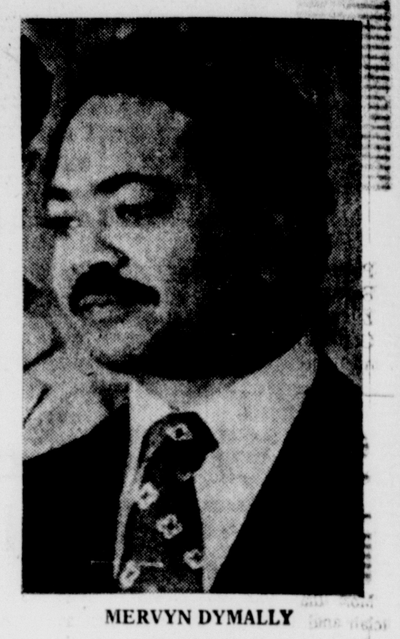

—Those who have been getting unemployment insurance at least 15 weeks.

GOP era ends; 4 new Demo faces in state elective offices

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's constitutional officers —all but one a Democrat — ended an eight-year Republican era Monday to the clatter of firecrackers and sparkle of champagne.

Six statewide officers, following the inauguration of Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., took office in separate swearing-in ceremonies.

They were Secretary of State March Fong Eu, Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally, Treasurer Jesse Unruh, Controller Ken Cory, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles and Attorney General Evelle Younger —the only Republican in the group.

Ms. Eu, becoming the first person of Chinese ancestry to hold a statewide post, was sworn in before her former colleagues in the Assembly chamber.

The former assemblywoman from Oakland then was escorted to a reception across the street from the Capitol by a group of Chinese lion dancers from San Francisco's Chinatown. Firecrackers were set off during the brief celebration outside the Capitol.

The crackle of the firecrackers could be heard in the Senate chambers where Dymally took the oath of office to become the first black in California history to hold the state's No. 2 constitutional office. He represented the Watts district of Los Angeles in the Senate from 1966 through last year.

Dymally, 48, was introduced at the ceremony by outgoing Lt. Gov. John Harmer, who gave up his Senate seat a month prior to last November's election to replace former Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke.

Harmer quipped that perhaps the two men someday could be entered into the Guinness books of records —he for serving the shortest time as lieutenant governor and Dymally for serving the longest.

"I could sincerely wish nothing more for him," Harmer said.

Dymally told about 250 persons crowded into the chamber, "Californians expressed a great deal of confidence in giving me this responsibility. I'm going to work very hard to justify that confidence."

Unruh, 52, California's most powerful legislator in the 1960s, ended a four-year absence from elective office when he was sworn in during ceremonies in the Capitol rotunda.

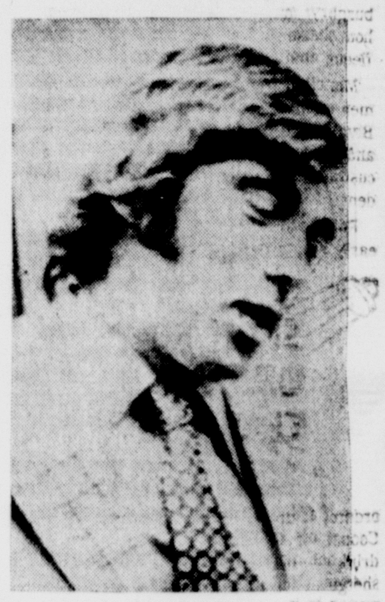

"It's awafully good to be back," Unruh told several hundred persons attending the ceremonies. "I can't tell you how much I missed being in the middle of the decision-making arena."

Unruh, who served 16 years in the Assembly, including nine as speaker, left the legislature in 1970 to run unsuccessfully for governor against Ronald Reagan. After failing in a bid to become mayor of Los Angeles in 1973, Unruh waged a lowkeyed campaign to win the treasurer's post in November.

Cory, 35, was administered the oath in the controller's office. A former Orange County assemblyman and protege of Unruh in the Assembly, Cory at one point turned to the new treasurer and quipped: "I made it Jesse, the money's ours."

Champagne punch was served at a reception in Younger's office following the swearing-in of the attorney general to his second four-year term. Champagne also flowed at several other post swearing-in celebrations for the statewide officers.

Riles, 57, also beginning his second term as schools chief, was given the oath in the cafeteria of the Education Building.

Brown stresses smog reduction in Southland talk

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. told Southern Californians on his first day in office that he will set up a single state antipollution agency.

"Their performance will be measured each week in whether or not we can take a deep breath, and see the mountains in Southern California," Brown told a meeting of about 400 elected officials.

Brown said he wants to combine a number of state agencies into a single Environmental Protection Agency, and that "We will take a tough attitude towards smog."

"The state has the authority to reverse decisions made by local pollution districts. If variances (from pollution controls) are not justified, we are going to reverse them," Brown said.

Brown said he wants stricter penalties for smog law violators, regulations requiring the auto industry to "clean up its own department," and guidelines by the Public Utilities Commission that "encourage people to conserve."

"Now, the more (energy) you use, the cheaper it is. We're going to change the rate structure in the PUC," he said.

Brown said his administration would take school quality into account in allocating funds for education.

"More money for school does not always translate into better learning," he said. "Schools should provide discipline, opportunity and inspiration.

"If they do, we have plenty of money. If not, they won't get a dime."

He also called for a "re-evaluation of the whole system of justice—it neither punishes nor deters nor rehabilitates. It just absorbs money, and we want to change that."

He said government had become "more confused and more elaborate" on all levels and his administration would try to consolidate agencies. "We have to cut through the tangle ups to provide jobs and solve problems," he said.

Fashion DEAD, says compiler of worst-dressed-women list

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Mr. Blackwell's list of the world's worst dressed women includes a princess, a congresswoman and a famous Fanne.

"I no longer have to threaten fashion's demise," the designer said, announcing his annual list today. "It is DEAD."

His list of the 10 worst dressed women of 1974" actually amounted to 13 —counting the singing Pointer Sisters as one entry.

He named Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., as "a 1940 fashion intellect," and Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia, Richard Burton's fiance, as "the big droop."

Of Fanne Fox, the "Tidal Basin Bombshell" stripper entangled with Rep. Wilbur Mills, Black said "too much of the first name showing and foxing around the designs."

Others included designer Sonia Rykiel, singers Helen Reddy and Cher Bono ("a Hawaiian Bat Mitzvah"), Charo ("Carmen Miranda with cleavage") and actresses Raquel Welch ("fashion could give her a LIFT") and Karen Valentine ("the little girl forever").

Blackwell said his idea of well dressed "fashion independents" were Princess Grace of Monaco, Faye Dunaway, Natalie Wood, Rose Kennedy, Mrs. Ronald Reagan and AnnMargret.

"When and if designers return women to their feminine role and start regarding the male viewpoint, it is possible there will be a rebirth of fashion," he said.

Chrysler to offer rebate in move to boost sales

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp., whose 1974 car sales dropped 21.3 per cent from the previous year, will begin a rebate program Sunday for customers who buy 1975 cars and trucks in an effort to boost lagging sales.

A Chrysler spokesman today said the No. 3 automaker, which had a 37.4 per cent December sales drop, would launch a sales promotion program, "the details of which we are not prepared to reveal at the present moment."

The Wall Street Journal said the rebates will cut the effective prices of some of Chrysler's cars and trucks from $200 to $400 a vehicle.

The Chrysler spokesman said the program involves a rebate but is not a reduction in the manufacturer's suggested retail price of the vehicle.

"It's not a price cut in the ordinary sense," he added. "Sticker prices will remain the same."

The Journal said the plan will be unveiled this weekend in advertisements on the nationally televised Super Bowl game. It said the program means consumers will get money back from Chrysler on cars they buy or order during the next five weeks or so. The automaker was expected to announce each week the models that are eligible for a rebate.

The "Big Four" utomakers have resisted any price cuts in the past to stimulate sales, saying only a restoration of consumer confidence is needed to spark sales. But they saw 1974 sales drop 23 per cent from 1973's record to make last year the worst for any nonstrike year in 15 years.

The last price cut was by the Ford Motor Co. which trimmed the cost of a subcompact Pinto $150 by lowering the base price and substituting cheaper tires for radials.

The four U.S. automakers Monday reported a dropoff of more than 2 million cars from the previous year —7,448,921 compared with a record 9,669,689 in 1973.

December sales of 429,198 cars were off 25.2 per cent from the previous year, marking the worst nonstrike December in 15 years.

The continuing sales downturn was expected to affect up to 300,000 workers by the end of the month —40 per cent of the hourly work force.

Troops surround Indians

GRESHAM, Wis. (UPI) — National Guard troops took up positions early today around a Roman Catholic estate which has been occupied by Indians since New Year's Day.

American Indian Movement leaders Dennis Banks and Russell Means, who played key roles in the prolonged occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D. in 1973, were en route to Gresham in northeastern Wisconsin, where the abandoned Alexian Brothers novitiate is located.

The 66-room mansion which the Alexian Brothers occupied until 1968 is about 130 miles northwest of Milwaukee.

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey ealed out 250 guardsmen from Green Bay Monday night, marking his first official move to end the occupation which has been marked by several exchanges of fire between the militant Indians and law officers.

The Menominee Indians occupying the building say that the land on which it was erected originally was tribal land. However, county authorities say a search of records back for more than a century show that it never was a part of tribal land.

The first Guardsmen arrived just before 4 a.m. and troopers quickly took control of key points, relieving lawmen who had encircled the novitiate since Jan. 1.

One lawman, who asked not to be identified, said officials Monday established a new checkpoint to the rear of the novitiate, giving authorities a view of the Red River.

He said lawmen had learned Indians were leaving the building from the back to gather animals and were cutting trees, apparently with a hope of building a bridge across the river in order to bring in supplies.

At Milwaukee, Banks and Means told a rally Monday night they were en route to Gresham.

"This is no longer a local law enforcement matter. This is a national incident," said Dennis Banks, executive director of AIM. He said he and Russell Means, a national director of AIM, were on their way to Gresham to attempt to negotiate a peaceful settlement to the takeover.

The two appeared at a rally backing the Menominee Warrior Society.

Means criticized Menominee tribal leaders for failing to support the takeover.

"They should take a supportive role to at least save Indian lives and prevent possible jail terms," he said.

$900 taken at gunpoint; juvenile held after chase

More than $900 was taken in Montclair and Pomona robberies Monday and Ontario police captured a juvenile burglary suspect after a 90-mile-per hour chase that ended in a crash of the fleeing and pursuing vehicles.

Montclair police reported that four men entered Ellie's Forum at 5074 Holt Blvd. Monday night produced weapons and robbed the tavern owner and a customer who was beaten in the incident.

Police said the four men, all in their early 20s, walked into the tavern and ordered a drink. While the owner, Ellie Cooper of Claremont, was fixing the drink one of the men drew a sawed-off shotgun. The gunman ordered the woman to hand over the cash from the register and lie down on the floor.

SPOTLIGHT ON CRIME

At the same time, a customer in the bar, Rolf W. Sautter, 33, of Ontario, told officers that a man grabbed him from behind and stuck a revolver in his ear threatening, "I'm going to kill you." Sautter said he was ordered to lie down on the floor. When he did, he looked up at the gunman and was kicked in the ribs and roughed up. He said another man with the gunman said, "Go ahead shoot him." Sautter said, instead, the men grabbed his wallet containing cash and fled out the door.

The four robbers were described as negroes about 5 feet 8 to 5 feet 10, 130 to 150 pounds. One was wearing a dark windbreaker and another a dark watch cap and a dark windbreaker. Police said they have the description of several cars seen leaving the area about the same time as the robbery, but no other clues in the case.

In Pomona, an apartment building manager was robbed Monday evening by three young men who pretended they were seeking an apartment to rent.

The incident occurred in the carport area at 1464 S. Palomares St. after the victim, James E. Parker, 40, had shown the three a second floor apartment.

Parker told police that one of the men pulled a sawed-off shotgun from beneath his jacket and a second produced a sawed-off .22-caliber rifle. They took his wallet while holding the muzzles of the weapons against him, the victim said.

The man with the shotgun was described as a Negro about 25, 6 feet 1 weighing 180 pounds. He wore a black knit cap, blue ski jacket and blue jeans. The one with the rifle was a Negro about 20, 5 feet 10 and slender.

A young Upland woman was robbed after she got into her vehicle parked on the lot of the Bank of America at 1605 W. Holt Ave. shortly after noon Monday, Pomona police said.

Janet P. Jewell, 20, said two men approached, asked for a match and then threatened her with a small pistol. The armed man was described as a Negro, 5 feet 5 weighing 150 pounds. He wore a green plaid shirt and dark trousers.

In Ontario, police reported that a 16-year-old youth in a stolen pick-up truck was taken into custody on suspicion of burglary following a high speed chase through Upland and Cucamonga that ended when the fleeing stolen vehicle and a police car crashed.

Police Officer Frank Browne said at one point during the pursuit both cars reached speeds approachng 90 miles per hour.

The incident began when Officer Browne and other officers were investigating one of two service station burglaries reported Monday night in the area of Fourth Street and the San Bernardino Freeway.

Browne said he saw a pickup truck stolen in the earlier burglary at the Shell Station in the 1500 block of fourth Street drive by. He chased the stolen truck northbound on Vineyard Avenue, calling for assistance from the West End Sheriff's sub-station and Upland police who joined him in the area of Vineyard Avenue and N. Lucas Ranch Road. The pursuit took the officer through several rocky fields and across narrow streets in the Cucamonga area.

Finally, Browne said the pickup truck struck a parked car on Via Carrillo Road in Cucamonga, and his overheated car crashed into the rear-end of the stolen pickup. Browne said the youthful suspect, apparently uninjured in the crash, ran on foot and jumped over a six-foot block wall near the Sycamore Inn on Foothill Boulevard. Browne caught the youth and placed him under arrest.

Browne said officers found a case of motor oil and a case of soda pop stolen from the Shell Service station in the stolen truck. The youth was placed in juvenile hall on suspicion of burglary, grand theft auto, resisting arrest and reckless driving. The Ontario Police car suffered moderate damage in the collision.

Rocky calls on CIA chief as first witness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller has called CIA Director William E. Colby as one of the first witnesses to testify before the first meeting of the special presidential investigating committee next Monday, a spokesman announced today.

The spokesman, John Mulliken, said Rockefeller announced the first meeting in a telegram to members of the blue-ribbon panel set up last weekend by President Ford to investigate alleged illegal domestic spying by the Central Intelligence Agency. The commission must issue its findings by April 4.

The telegram said the commission's first meeting will be held between 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. EST Monday in Rockefeller's suite in the Executive Office Building, adjacent to the White House.

"Mr. Colby, head of the CIA, and others will join us during the course of the day," it said.

The names of the other witnesses were not disclosed, but it was assumed they eventually would include Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger; Richard Helms, former director of the CIA now ambassador to Iran, and possibly James Angleton, the chief of CIA counter-intelligence who recently resigned.

Rockefeller meanwhile is expected to announce commission staff appointments later this week, according to informed sources.

CHP officer killed as tire on cycle blows

An off-duty California Highway Patrol officer was killed Monday on the Pomona Freeway near the City of Industry when a rear tire blew out on his motorcycle, spilling the rider to the pavement.

Robert Phillips, 28, of Valinda, suffered severe head injuries in the spill. He was pronounced dead on his arrival at the Queen of the Valley Hospital in West Covina.

Phillips was riding east on the freeway on his own cycle when the tire blew out near the San Gabriel River Freeway. The cycle went into a wobble, causing the rider to lose control, said investigators.

The motorcycle spun around and ejected Phillips to the pavement, they added. His helmet was smashed by the impact.

Witnesses reported Phillips was going about 55 miles an hour in the fast lane. No other vehicles were involved.

Phillips had joined the highway patrol on Aug. 14, 1967, and was assigned to the Baldwin Park office. He is survived by his widow, Vickie, and his parents.

Ford asking resignation of FAA chief, a Nixon holdover

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has requested the resignation of Federal Aviation Administrator Alexander P. Butterfield in the drive to clear out all Nixon appointees in the top layer of government, administration sources said today.

Butterfield was informed Dec. 18 by Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar, with whom he has disagreed on aviation policy, that Ford is shaking up the agency and wants him out.

The FAA chief still has not been informed personally by the White House, sources said. But he was expected to meet with Donald H. Rumsfeld, White House chief of staff, later this week.

Butterfield is best known for having disclosed that President Richard M. Nixon had taped all of his conversations in the White House, including his covert discussions about Watergate. The tapes eventually led to Nixon leaving the presidency.

As to whether Ford was getting rid of Butterfield because he had exposed the existence of the Watergate tapes, sources said the FAA administrator's record "is too damn good to play that game."

Plutonium swallowing, death link probed

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A woman who swallowed a tiny amount of plutonium days before her death in an auto crash probably did not ingest the nuclear fuel at the plant where she worked, according to the Atomic Energy Commission.

The AEC also said that small traces of plutonium had been added to the woman's urine samples, but that it was unable to determine who put them there.

In a report issued Monday, the agency said Karen Silkwood, 28, "probably" was not contaminated in "an accident or incident" at the Kerr-McGee nuclear fuel processing plant in Cimarron, Okla., where she worked as a technician.

Miss Silkwood swallowed the plutonium about Nov. 7, the AEC report said. On Nov. 13, she was killed in a car smashup as she drove back to Oklahoma from Los Alamos, N.M., where she had gone for medical tests.

The report said Miss Silkwood's body and tissues contained less than half the maximum permissible limit of plutonium, but that sometime after she was tested in New Mexico and before the tests were analyzed, plutonium was added to her urine samples.

One AEC official said the radioactive fuel that contaminated Miss Silkwood may have been leaked on purpose.

"I don't think there's any question that there's some evidence there was contrivance involved," AEC spokesman Jan Strasma said.

He said no firm evidence was found to indicate by whom or how the plutonium was added to Miss Silkwood's urine samples.

Miss Silkwood was killed when her car crashed into a culvert near Crescent, Okla., while she was en route to a meeting with a New York Times reporter and a union official to discuss safety conditions in the Cimmaron plant.

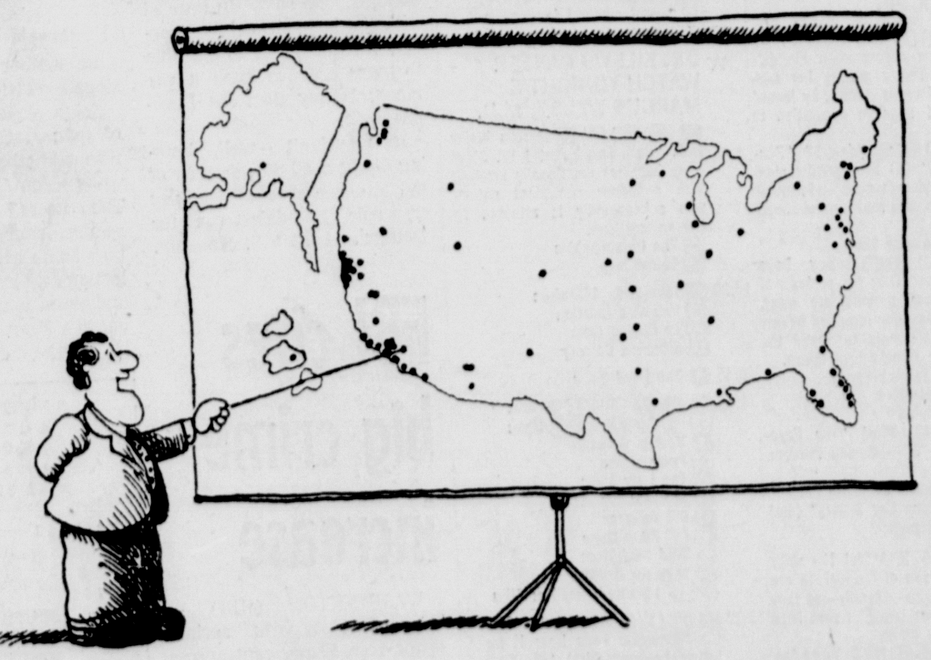

Anthony Mazzocchi, legislative director of the 200,000 member Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, asked Attorney General William B. Saxbe to investigate the death.

He said a private investigator hired by the union indicated Miss Silkwood's car might have been forced off the road. The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said later that was unlikely.

Some low-level contamination also was found in the Edmond, Okla., apartment Miss Silkwood shared with another employe of the nuclear plant.

A second AEC report, concerning union allegations of safety hazards at the plant, was to be released today.

Fleet car leaser predicts more trouble for Detroit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Detroit's automakers, in order to survive, are going to have to come up with a three-thousand pound car selling for about $3,000 that can stand up to 25,000 miles in a year's driving, according to a fleet leasing executive.

"The American public cannot continue to pay today's prices for automobiles, plus the rising cost of gasoline. If Detroit doesn't do something drastic and sensible about it, the automakers are in for a lot more trouble than they have now," said John A. Blessing, chairman of CCEC-McCullagh, the fleet leasing subsidiary of Commercial Credit Corp., Baltimore.

Blessing said companies that operate leasing fleets have to pay today's prices for intermediate size cars with power brakes and power steering, although they don't like it. "But even though fleet sales have risen from 17 per cent of Detroit's market to close to 30 per cent, the automobile manufacturers can't live off us, they've got to have the family market," he added.

Blessing said he is concerned if the family market keeps on deterioriating Detroit will not be able to keep plants running at sufficient capacity to supply the fleet owners with acceptable new cars.

"The unsold new cars you see parked on the lots of dealers are no good to us. They are either very small cars that won't stand up to the 25,000 miles a year our customers require, or they are huge gashogs loaded with expensive extras we don't want."

Blessing said fleet operators already have stretched out their average trade-in cycle from 19 to 28 months because Detroit cars are becoming so expensive. "We can't run the cars much longer than 28,000 months so we are seriously concerned," he said.

Blessing's company ranks third in the fleet leasing and buying business after Peterson, Howell Heather, Inc. also of Baltimore, and Gelco Corp. of Minneapolis. Other leaders in the business are Wheels, Inc., Automotive Rentals, Inc., and Hertz and Avis. It has 48,000 vehicles under lease and also leases such expensive items as $60 million worth of nuclear fuel.

Blessing said his impression that he and his competitors may have difficulty getting suitable cars in the months ahead was strengthened by recent visits among the automakers in Detroit.

The 3,000 pound car Detroit must produce would have to be rugged, small in size but roomy inside, and have an engine much more economical of fuel than the six-and eight-cylinder power plants on today's domestic intermediates and compacts. It would not have power steering, power brakes, power windows nor fancy upholstery and trim.

"Such a car can be produced. The Europeans are doing it," he said. He implied with the huge American market, Detroit ought to be able to mass produce such a car more cheaply than the Europeans do.

If they don't —well, Blessing didn't spell out his idea of the alternative except to say it would be disastrous for Detroit and the U.S. economy.

Billy Graham production

Julie Harris thrilled by latest role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Actress Julie Harris, whose award-winning performances have ranged from comedy to the classics, says one of the great thrills of her career has been her starring role in a new film by the Billy Graham organization.

She is no lapel-grabbing evangelist. In fact, she is a childhood dropout from the Episcopal church, and even today is "so unmystic."

Yet, she said, "I see something of God in all that I do," especially in the theater.

Interviewed in her Watergate hotel suite during a recent visit to Washington (she now is appearing on Broadway with Rex Harrison in Terence Rattigan's "In Praise of Love") Miss Harris said she found the Billy Graham film role a natural.

The film is "The Hiding Place," just released by World Wide Pictures, part of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association. It is the story of Corrie ten Boom, a Dutch Christian woman whose work in the Nazi resistance movement helped countless Dutch Jews escape German persecution.

In it, she plays Corrie's deeply spiritual sister, Betsie.

"I found my identification with Betsie 100 per cent," she said, "and I could imagine how she felt all the time."

As with other roles, she said, playing Betsie was "hard in that you want to get out of your skin and into someone else's. But it was easy in that I never felt estranged from her thinking. And, of course, I could talk to Corrie about it."

Miss Harris became interested in the ten Booms' story more than two years ago when she heard Corrie speak in Long Beach, Calif.

Doing "The Hiding Place," she said, was "a great thrill, one of the best experiences" in a stage, screen and television career that has won her two Emmy and four Tony awards.

JULIE HARRIS

"I've played a lot of saints," said Miss Harris, who gave one of her most memorable performances as Joan of Arc in "The Lark."

"It makes me conscious of that side of existence. I've always had a desire to know about that side of life."

She seems genuinely overwhelmed by the directness of the ten Boom sisters' faith.

Pointing to a copy of Tolstoy's "The Kingdom of God" on the coffee table at her knee, she said: "The ten Booms were a testimony to that."

Her own faith is less than conventional.

"I was sent to Sunday school in the Episcopal church and I was confirmed in the Episcopal church, and then never went back," Miss Harris said.

"I expected to find miracles in the church. Now I really feel that I found God in the theater. Now I don't go to church, but I have my own way of living, of trying to live a Christian life."

A healthy dog won't be hurt eating snow

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Rumbles really enjoys the snow, especially eating it. So far I can't see that it's hurt him, but a recent skiing partner told me it wasn't good because dogs who eat snow get tonsillitis. Do dogs even have tonsils? If they do, would eating snow give them tonsillitis?—F.R.

Dear F.R.: All canines carry tonsils. While Rumbles' snow-eating wouldn't cause tonsillitis, it just might cause an existing case of tonsillitis to become more severe if he sufficiently frosted his throat.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Do cats suffer from the respiratory virus Cryptococcosis?—S.S.

Dear S.S.: Respiratory virus symptoms in cats closely resemble those round from Cryptococcosis. Usually there is a chronic discharge from eyes and nose and frequently a cough with some respiratory difficulty. Cryptococcosis is not a viral disease, however. Instead it is due to the yeast Cryptococcus. This yeast infection often causes turmorlike enlargements in the sinus of cats. These swellings may also cause brain damage and related effects such as incoordination or blindness. Though there is no evidence Cryptococcus is ever directly transmitted from pet to man or even from pet to pet, it has on occasion been found in dogs, horses, cattle, as well as in cats.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I wonder if Tara, my dingo, could be bred with any dog. If I didn't find a dingo and she would breed with a plain dog, how long would she be pregnant?—J.V.

Dear J.V.: Any personal preference aside, Tara would at the proper time be capable of breeding with a dog, common or otherwise. Her gestation period would be the same whether she had been bred to a dingo or to a dog down the block, 63 days give or take a couple.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Nosy is now nine years old. All in all, she's doing pretty well. But in the past year or two, her nails seem to be growing at a more rapid rate than in her youth. Consequently, she frequently gets hung up in the carpet. Is this a normal problem for the older cat to have nails growing faster?—A.C.

Dear A.C.: Nosy's nails aren't growing faster, though this may appear to be the case because she's caring for them less. If she's becoming lazy and not keeping up her manicure (pedicure, if you prefer) you had better take over the job for her.

Proxmire against equal time law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says he will introduce legislation to repeal the "equal time" provisions for political broadcasts because the present law prevents the public from hearing "meaningful debate" among leading political candidates.

Proxmire wants to change the present law so that only bonafide candidates could get time on the air.

He said the current law — which requires radio and television stations who give time to one candidate to offer an equal amount of time to all candidates for the same office —does not work because there are too many marginal candidates.

'Thimking' can be disastrous

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Remember the misspelled slogan, "THIMK"&

South played dummy's jack of spades at trick one. East rose with the ace; paused a while to do some "thimking". Then he led back the six of spades. After that friendly return South had no trouble collecting two spades, four clubs and three diamonds. He even got in a heart trick at the finish, but he didn't need it.

If East had done some constructive thinking instead of his garbled version he would have said to himself, "South has opened a no-trump without the ace-king queen or jack of hearts. Would he make that bid without one of the four top spades also? Probably not!"

That would have marked South with the king of spades and made a spade return most unattractive.

Then East would shift to the deuce of hearts. West's 10 would force the king or queen from dummy. Later on West would get in with the king of diamonds and lead a heart to his partner. East would cash three heart tricks and South's three no-trump contract would have gone to never-never land.

FBI cites big crime increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI reports serious crime rose 16 per cent across the country in the first nine months of 1974 and the biggest increase was in the South.

The January-to-September statistics were accompanied Thursday by call from outgoing Attorney General William B. Saxbe for law enforcement agencies to work harder on preventing crime and to insure swift prosecution as a deterrent.

Crimes against property, such as auto theft, were up 17 per cent while murder, rape, robbery, assault and other violent crimes rose 8 per cent over the first three-quarters of 1973.

Crime rose 20 per cent in the South over the first nine months of last year, the FBI said. The increase was 15 per cent in the north-central part of the country, 14 per cent in the West and 13 per cent in the heavily populated northeast.

"The continuing increase in crime requires an intensification of our efforts to identify the causes, improve crime prevention and insure swift prosecution," said Saxbe in a statement.

Ehrlichman trial in L.A. postponed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Another Watergate-related trial for John Ehrlichman has been postponed.

Ehrlichman faces perjury charges here for allegedly lying to a grand jury when he denied knowledge of plans by White House "plumbers" to burglarize the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer, who was to have set a trial date Monday, postponed action until March 3.

Ehrlichman, convicted New Year's Day in the Watergate trial, was not in court. He and other Watergate figures were charged with conspiring in the burglary here. The local charges were dropped when the federal government brought the Watergate indictments, except for the perjury count against Ehrlichman.

Milk production

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The average annual production of milk per cow in California is 13,066 pounds, about 30 per cent greater than the national average, the state Department of Food and Agriculture reports.

Japan seeks cause of huge oil spill

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Japan rushed maritime experts to the Malacca Strait today to probe the causes behind a million-gallon oil spill that threatened the beaches of three southeast Asian nations.

Tokyo government officials said Prime Minister Takeo Miki and oil industry experts were shocked by the news that the Japanese supertanker ran aground in an "extremely dangerous shallow zone" early Monday.

Miki instructed his experts to take "extraordinary efforts" to deal with the situation and to investigate well the amount of damages Japan will be required to pay, the officials said.

In Kuala Lumpur, meanwhile, Malaysian officials expressed "grave concern" the 1.5-mile-long slick would ruin the beaches of Singapore, Malaysia and Indonesia.

"An accident of this nature is not unexpected in the congested traffic situation in the Strait of Malacca and adjacent waters," Environment Minister Ong Kee Hui said, but he stressed the Malaysian government was watching the situation closely.

"The government, therefore, views the Showa Maru incident and the existing congestion in the strait with grave concern, and has already started work on an overall contingency plan for the Strait of Malacca," he said.

Street peddlers regulated in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Board of Supervisors unanimously approved an ordinance Monday regulating street peddlers on San Francisco streets.

The law would require street artists to leave a 10-foot walkway for pedestrians, maintain distances between their stands and to stay away from fire hydrants and building entrances.

Supervisor Robert Mendelsohn said that if finally adopted, the ordinance would "throw them out of Union Square entirely."

To be adopted, the ordinance needs the mayor's signature.

Judge refuses injunction on ocean drilling

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal judge refused to issue a preliminary injunction Monday against the U.S. Interior Department which would have blocked procedures in issuance of leases for offshore oil drilling.

U.S. District Court Judge David W. Williams agreed, however, to retain jurisdiction over the suit and monitor future conduct of the Interior Department assuring compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

The suit, brought by California State Attorney General Evelle Younger and the state Coastline Commission, seeks to enjoin the Interior Department from going ahead with off-shore leases prior to completion of an environmental impact report.

Victim was dad of ambulance crewman

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Dennis Sabo, 17, was a member of an ambulance crew sent to St. Emerick Church recently when a man collapsed of an apparent heart attack at a church party.

Sabo discovered the victim was his father, Theodore, 50.

The elder Sabo was dead on arrival at Lee Hospital.

Arab oilmen might rescue sports car co.

LONDON (UPI) — The chairman of Aston Martin, Britain's bankrupt sports car maker, said that Arab oilmen may come to the rescue of the company.

"The man who telephoned said he represented Middle East oil interests who are willing to bail the company out in return for a substantial stake," William Willson said, adding:

"But I do not want to raise anyone's hopes. I refuse to attach any importance to this offer until I see it in writing...If they do this and there seems a chance of saving the company, I shall pass on the information to the receiver."

Aston Martin announced its liquidation Monday. The firm for 60 years has made luxury sports cars whose price ranges, for the latest model, up to $32,750.

Willson blamed the government for the collapse, saying it had set unmeetable conditions for lending the firm the money it needed to continue.

Introducing the 7½%, 6-10 year Investment Certificate.

Twice.

As a high yield way to invest.

This Bank of America Investment Certificate is the negotiable type. Available only at full-service banks. It lets you get a high 7½% interest as well as flexibility. Federal law prohibits redemption prior to maturity. But if an emergency comes up and you need your money you can sell your negotiable Investment Certificate without losing interest. However, the price that you get will depend on the money market at the time of the sale. To be realistic, if you want to sell your $1,000 Investment Certificate before the 6 to 10 years are up, you could wind up with less than $1,000. Or more. Depending upon the prevailing money market. Of course, if you hold the certificate to maturity, you'll receive the full principal plus the guaranteed interest. That adds up to a lot of money—$2,102 in 10 years.

BANK OF AMERICA

As a high interest way to save.

This Bank of America Investment Certificate is the non-negotiable type. It guarantees you 7½% for anywhere from 6 to 10 years. No matter what happens to other interest rates you don't have to worry about this savings rate changing. Even if the rates drop. Federal law requires a substantial penalty for early withdrawal on a non-negotiable Investment Certificate. So decide how much you can spare and for how long. Then put at least $1,000 in a high interest, non-negotiable Bank of America Investment Certificate.

Like the negotiable type, the non-negotiable Investment Certificate is guaranteed up to $40,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Pick the Investment Certificate that suits you best. Then ask for it at any of the more than 1,000 Bank of America offices throughout California.

You'll like what you get.
One way or the other.
Depend on us. More Californians do.

Chain firm to close 66 more stores

NEW YORK (UPI) — Financially troubled W.T. Grant Co., the variety store chain, said today it will close 66 more stores this year instead of 50 more as originally announced.

The company notified vendors to halt shipments of merchandise to the 66 stores, all of which the company said, are unprofitable. The 66 stores are in addition to 26 Grant stores whose closing this month had been ordered. The new closings will take place between February and July.

They include a number of the large Grant City department stores built and opened in the past five years.

Grant reported a $50 million shrinkage in sales for the first 10 months of 1974 and a loss of $22.47 million for the first three quarters. It earned $8.49 million or 59 cents a share in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1974 on sales of $1.85 bilion and last Jan. 31 had 1,189 stores in operation. About 50 stores closed in January, 1974.

More layoffs by carmakers in W. Germany

BONN (UPI) — Two West German automobile manufacturers Thursday announced temporary lay offs affecting almost 100,000 workers following a slump in domestic and foreign markets.

Volkswagen, the country's largest car producer, laid off 86,000 of its 111,000 workers until Jan. 10, in accordance with previously announced plans.

The General Motors Opel subsidiary laid off 11,000 employes for a total of eight days to be staggered during the month of January, the company said.

At the beginning of the year Volkswagen raised its domestic prices by an average of 3.5 per cent. This was the third price increase in the last ten months. The company raised its list prices March 11 by an average of 6.35 per cent and May 13 by 6 per cent.

Government spokesman Armin Gruenewald said in an interview Thursday that the increases "were not gratifying, but understandable in view of the company's position."

MONDAY MORNING MISHAP

Driver David D. Eitzen, 72, Pomona, and Thair D. Garret, 30, Pomona, were injured Monday when this small auto was overturned at Towne Avenue and Second Street in Pomona. Both were treated and released at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. The other driver, Ralph V. McVaigh, 53, Pomona, was not hurt. Police reported Eitzen's car was hit broadside in the intersection.

City plans talks on police gripes

The Pomona City Council Monday night voted to initiate community meetings to deal with police-related complaints.

The council further gave tentative approval to seek outside "expertise" in the handling of police-minority relations, possibly through the U.S. Justice Department.

The action came as the result of charges of police brutality and harrassment of minority residents made by a group called the Minority Coalition for Equal Justice.

The group lodged its complaints three weeks ago with the council and returned Monday night to hear a report concerning the council's investigation of its charges. The council declined to seek an outside investigation of the Police Department.

While no members of the council found the group's charges substantiated, all noted that a very real problem does exist in communication between the minority residents and the police.

"I don't see any viable benefit of an (outside) investigation," said Councilman Benjamin Ochoa. "We might find one or two police officers who were causing trouble, but would that solve the problem?

"What we have to do is work together as human beings. Let's get some workshops going."

The remainder of the council agreed with Ochoa and voted unanimously to begin the workshops, which will include representatives from the police, city administration, council, the Minority Coalition for Equal Justice and other interested community groups.

The council also agreed to have City Administrator Jerrold Gonce determine whether the Conflict Resolution Team of the Justice Department could be of any assistance to the city in resolving the current police-minority problems.

The council clearly spelled out, however, that this action does not mean the city is seeking an investigation of the police department.

It was not immediately determined when or where the community workshops would be held.

In other business, the council postponed consideration of an ordinance that would require the issuance of certificates of occupancy for dwellings in the city. The postponement came at the request of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce.

The council also postponed consideration of an ordinance that would eliminate tax deductions for dwellings that are deemed substandard. This postponement came at the request of a Realtor's group.

Following a staff report and slide presentation, the council approved the formation of an underground utility district that will run the length of Holt Avenue in Pomona.

Although a number of property owners questioned the estimated costs they will be assessed for the project, there was no major objection to the formation of the utility district. In all, the project will cost more than $1 million, all but $15,000 of which will be paid by the utility companies.

The council also approved the expenditure of $3,000 for the preparation of plans for the Barjud Mini-park. The park will be constructed on property given to the city by the Department of Housing and Urban Development for that purpose. Abandoned homes formerly were on the site.

The city intends to develop the small park with approximately $30,000 in federal Community Development funds. Action on that allocation, however, will not be taken for several weeks.

Condition of teacher worse

Mike Ricottone, an auto shop instructor severely injured in a Dec. 4 explosion at Chino High School, has undergone emergency neurosurgery again and is in grave condition at Tustin Community Hospital.

Ricottone went through neurosurgery by a team of specialists the day a 55-gallon drum he stood atop exploded from the heat of a torch igniting vapors within the drum.

The 24-year-old teacher, although still in the intensive care unit of the Orange County hospital, had shown signs of awakening from his coma. However, his condition worsened over the past weekend and he has slipped back into a complete coma, said hospital officials. His condition is very critical.

Police planning to seek charge over bingo game

Pomona police today said they intended to seek a complaint against the operators of a bingo game they said they shut down Friday night at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall at 637 W. Second St.

The incident occurred shortly after 8 p.m. when detectives seized $1,447.50 in cash they said represented prize money and cash receipts from an alleged lottery.

Officers said they received information earlier that a lottery was planned that night at the hall. They said they intended to discuss their findings with district attorney's deputies in Pomona.

Parking group will mull village plans

The Claremont Vehicle Parking District Board of Commissioners will meet Wednesday at 8 a.m. in the City Council chambers to discuss various parking alternatives in the Village business district.

The board has received a letter from Henry and Dee Posner of Mr. Henry, 232 W. Second St., who complained that they had bought a $10 special permit parking ticket for an employe, but discovered that "everyone parks any place anytime, and no one receives an overtime parking ticket."

They termed the ticket another "American rip-off."

New city manager to address coordinators

Norman King, the new Claremont city manager who assumed his duties Dec. 30, will be the speaker at Wednesday's noon luncheon meeting of the Claremont Coordinating Council at Taylor Hall.

King had quit his job as Claremont deputy city manager in mid-October 1973 to take a $23,000-a-year post of assistant director for policy development in the new Office of Policy Analysis of the National League of Cities and United States Conference of Mayors in Washington, D.C.

He succeeded Keith Mulrooney who quit as city manager to take a similar position at Alexandria, Va.

Subject of King's talk is "The New Regime."

Fleet Reserve chief to visit local unit

Dan Spalding, southwest regional president of the Fleet Reserve Association, will pay his official visit to the Pomona Valley Fleet Reserve Association Branch 211 at the American Legion Hall, 13130 Central Ave., Chino, Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Spalding, of Camp Pendleton Branch 313, recently retired from the U.S. Marine Corps after 30 years. He lives at Oceanside.

Mrs. Helen Nordhagen, southwest regional president for the Ladies Auxiliary Fleet Reserve Association, will visit Unit 211 at the same meeting. Mrs. Nordhagen is a member of Unit 120, Oxnard.

The branch and the unit will hold a no-host dinner at the Fox 'n' Hounds Restaurant, 11950 Central Ave., Chino, at 6 p.m. to honor the visitors.

Poland movie, talk scheduled at MSAC

A narration and movie on Poland will be offered tonight at 8 o'clock at Mt. San Antonio College by Sheri Lynn and Matthew Mentes, world travelers.

The program is the last of a series for the fall semester sponsored by the college's Community Services Department. It will be held in the Social Science Center and will cost 50 cents for students and $1 for others.

Two cities join county in move to claim federal aid

Montclair . . .

The Montclair City Council agreed to participate in a joint powers agreement Monday night on application for federal money which could net Montclair $93,000 in the first year of a three-year program.

The council, with member Paul Jones absent, unanimously agreed to join four other cities in the agreement with San Bernardino County in an effort to obtain money under the 1974 federal bill which allocates funds to "local areas for a number of purposes relating to community development, the provision of moderate-and low-income housing, as well as the maintenance and upgrading of existing housing."

Tom Mauk, assistant city administrator, outlined the details of the agreement which would call for the city to "give" its population of 22,541 to the county in order to increase the population for allocation under a special formula.

The bill — the Community Development Act — specifies that applications may be made on the basis of over 50,000 persons in an area; as a city with an existing redevelopment program; or as an area under 50,000 population competing for discretionary funds.

The joint powers agreement will give the participating governments more leverage in obtaining the federal funds.

The City of Montclair could receive $500,000 over a three-year period if the application is successful, Mauk estimated.

In other action, the council:

— Postponed action on the revocation of a conditional use permit for the vacant Phillips Service Station at Central Avenue and Kingsley Street for 90 days.

— Approved the purchase of a base station and seven mobile units and antenna for new radio communication equipment. Communatronix was low bidder with the cost of $3,885.

— Approved the revised joint powers agreements for both the West Valley Transit Service Authority and the San Bernardino Associated Governments' agreement with 10 cities and the county for a public transit system.

Upland . . .

After a 45-minute presentation by City Engineer Fred Blanchard Monday night, the Upland City Council approved participation in a joint powers agreement with San Bernardino County to assist with the acquisition of funds from the Housing and Community Development Act.

In other action, the council:

—By a 3-2 vote, awarded $750 to TURN, a nonprofit organization representing consumers before the Public Utilities Commission.

—Denied the claim for damages in the amount of $10,000 filed by Sylvia Solano, 9397 Eighth St., Cucamonga.

—Referred to the city attorney for action a report from the Police and Fire Committee regarding court action filed by Frank Petronzio, 1380 N. Grove Ave., for $10,000 compensatory damages and $50,000 punitive damages.

School board joins students in drapery job

New draperies will be purchased for Montclair High School under an agreement reached Monday night by the Chaffey school board.

The district will pay $2,316.10 from community service funds towards the drapery purchase with the Montclair High School student body paying the remaining $1,325.

School board members approved a regulation established by district principals to modify programs as required by the air pollution emergency episode plan.

They were informed of the San Bernardino County School Boards Association's winter meeting which will be held Jan. 30 at 6:30 p.m. in the main cafeteria at Chaffey College, Alta Loma. The college staff will present a program on "K-14 Articulation."

Members of the board signed a copy of an argument favoring the March 4 tax override election to increase the base revenue limit per student in increments over the next three years. The proposal calls for a $1.72 per pupil increase in 1975-76, up to $2.39 in 1976-77, and topping at $2.93 in 1977-78.

Economy pressures may stall building of city fire station

Residents of La Verne Heights may not get the new fire station they were promised this year—not on time, at least — because the current recession combined with the ongoing inflation is making the City Council apprehensive.

The council has asked City Manager George Caswell to come up with projections as to the health of the city's budget for the rest of the fiscal year to see whether the council would be able to pay for the project.

"It's not that we shouldn't build the station," Councilman Frank Johnson told his colleagues Monday night. "It's just to see whether we can go ahead with it right now."

He noted that bids for the construction of the station will be submitted to the city this month and observed that "there would be no point in completing the station and then find that we don't have the money to hire the firemen."

Residents of Mountain Springs Estates, a small part of North La Verne, are currently protected by the Los Angeles County Consolidated Fire Protection District.

The residents last summer asked the city to build a fire station in their area so that they don't have to pay for fire protection both to the city and the county. After the council agreed, the residents moved to secede from the district as of next June 30.

Until the new station is completed the city is contracting with the county for fire protection on a month-to-month basis not only for Mountain Springs Estate but all of North La Verne.

Johnson asked Caswell to report the state of the budget to the council in two weeks.

"If our finances are healthy and indications are that they will remain reasonable strong, we should go ahead," he said. "If we find there may be a problem, we can always ask the county to continue fire protection to La Verne Heights on a monthly basis as long as necessary."

Johnson recommended that the city accept the bids for construction of the fire station in the meantime.

"There is nothing wrong with getting the bids," he explained. "If we need them we'll have them. If we postpone the project, at least we'll have an idea what cost we are talking about."

The station is estimated to cost about $200,000. The council is hoping to get that money out of revenue sharing funds, but the salaries of a fire crew would have to come from local tax money.

Hansberger named county board chief

Dennis Hansberger, 33, of Yucaipa, was elected Monday as new chairman of the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors.

He succeeds Mrs. Nancy Smith of San Bernardino. His term is for two years.

Elected as vice chairman was Daniel Mikesell of Ontario.

Hansberger was elected to the county board in 1972. He represents the Third District, which extends from Colton to Yucaipa and includes Redlands, Loma Linda and part of San Bernardino.

Transient held in woman's beating, fight with officer

West End sheriff's deputies arrested a 41-year-old laborer after he allegedly beat up a woman and attacked a deputy outside of the San Gabriel Valley Labor Association Camp at 8706 Arrow Highway in Cucamonga Sunday night.

Deputy Harry O'Campo reported that he was sent to the labor camp about 11:06 p.m. and found a man standing over a woman identified as Susan L. Ige, 22, of San Juan Capistrano. O'Campo said that the woman appeared to have been beaten severely by the man and he ordered the suspect to leave the woman alone.

O'Campo said the man, identified as James H. Carter, 41, a transient, suddenly lunged at him and began hitting him with his fists. O'Campo struck the suspect in the face knocking him down.

O'Campo said the man struck his head on the ground when he fell. The deputy said he injured his right wrist during the fight.

Later deputies learned that the woman was visiting friends at the camp and was suddenly grabbed by the suspect and beaten. Carter was given medical treatment at San Antonio Community Hospital and released to the custody of sheriff's officers. O'Campo and Miss Ige were treated for their injuries at Doctors Hospital in Montclair and later released.

Carter was booked in the West End on suspicion of assault on a peace officer, assault, and attempted rape.

There are 10 candidates, including the three incumbents, competing for three vacancies on the Chino school board in March elections.

Names of two who filed late Friday afternoon were omitted from the list of candidates for valley school board seats which ran in the Progress-Bulletin last Saturday morning.

The three incumbents whose terms are expiring and who are seeking reelection are Charles Smith, Eva Weiszbrod and Pete Vander Poel.

Seven additional candidates are Pat Rodriguez, a construction company treasurer, Chino; Lyle Briggs, nuclear project engineer, Chino; Patrick Hooven, educator, Pomona; Roy E. Ward, director of a boys' home, Chino; John M. Barceiona, no occupation listed, Chino; Bill DuBreuil, sales engineer, Chino; and Esther Ramirez, executive secretary, Chino.

School board members are elected for four-year terms.

Can discipline students

Bus driver now the boss

The Claremont Unified School District board Monday night adopted a revised policy which will permit a school bus driver to restrain or control a student if the safety of other student riders if jeopardized.

The district policy on transportation was last revised in 1969. The revision is included in a section which says that during a home-to-school trip, the driver is responsible for the conduct and discipline of pupils on the bus.

The revised policy deletes a statement which says that a driver has no authority to take any disciplinary action against any student, and to the statement "If a discipline problem with a student or students should arise, the driver is forbidden from asking the student to leave the bus while in transit" it adds the words, "but may exercise measures to physically restrain or control the student if the safety of other students is jeopardized."

Added to rules and regulations regarding conduct on the bus was that there shall be no drinking, no throwing objects out of open bus windows, and no animals or pets allowed on the bus except seeing-eye dogs accompanying a blind persons.

In the future, volunteer adults should be encouraged to sit dispersed throughout the bus to assist in maintaining proper student conduct, still another revision reads.

The revised policy puts the responsibility of establishing bus routes and other related items into the hands of the district business manager instead of the superintendent.

In other matters, the board learned that board member Mary Ellen Kilsby will testify on behalf of the California School Boards Association today at hearings held in San Diego by state school head Wilson Riles' Reform of Intermediate and Secondary Education blue-ribbon commission.

Mrs. Kilsby will tell the commission how the CSBA feels about the Kettering Foundation's recommended reforms in education.

Robert Stout and Conrad Briner of the Claremont Graduate School are both members of the commission.

The board also awarded the lease of the district's house at 157 San Jose Ave. to Debby Botkin for $120 a month. The district had received written bids of $90 from Leona Hunter and a minimum bid of $85 from James H. Mitchell.

Spirited oral bidding quickly led to Miss Botkin's winning bid.

Research is more than title deep

Told that the government spent $70,000 to study the body odor of Australian aborigines or $32,000 to find out how seagulls communicate or that his hard-earned tax dollars are supporting a slew of research projects in the nation's universities on such subjects as "Effect of Dry-Chilling on the Flavor of Fried Chicken" — well, the average taxpayer either fires off an irate letter to his congressman or local newspaper or simply throws up his hands in disgust.

There is so much boondoggling in Washington that most people have no doubt that instances such as these, which seem to pop up in the news with regularity, are but the tip of a vast iceberg. And the more oddsounding the title of the project, the more obvious the boondoggle.

Even journalists share this attitude and sometimes succumb to the temptation to take a cheap shot at the politicians and the eggheads.

Unfortunately, like so mamy other minor items in the news that command our attention briefly, the follow-up story seldom catches up with the original.

For example, what the National Institutes of Health was investigating was not Australian sweat but how the balance of body fluids of the aborigines in a hot climate compared with the Eskimos'. The object was to determine how U.S. servicemen headed for the equator could adapt to the heat.

The seagull project was commissioned by the Air Force, which in 1973 lost $24.5 million as a result of bird-aircraft collissions around airports. Biologists at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich., believe they can prevent at least half this loss.

As for that chicken business, this research, conducted at Purdue University, was undertaken in response to a deadline set by the European Common Market. After Jan. 1, 1977, the member countries announced, they will no longer accept poultry that has been cooled in a water bath.

This meant that the U.S. broiler and turkey industries had to come up with a new and satisfactory dry-chill method which retained the quality and taste of the product.

Thus the research at Purdue. At stake was nothing less than the $60-million annual broiler and turkey export business with the Common Market.

Government waste and inefficiency should of course continue to be mercilessly exposed. But at a time when the nation needs its research universities as never before, taxpayers, journalists and professional boondoggle spotters owe it to themselves to do a little research of their own before sniping at those projects with funny-sounding names.

A case of mistaken hair

A freeway bandit in Cleveland had been terrorizing women motorists. Using a flashing red light like a police car, he would force lone females to pull off the road, assault them and rob them and then threaten to kill them if they went to the police.

The robber-rapist tried it once too often, however. His last would-be victim had long flowing locks all right, but also happened to be sporting a moustache. The culprit sped off, but not before the motorist got a good look at his car and license plate, which enabled police to make an arrest.

Think about that next time you ridicule long hair on men.

Who wants busing?

From the Chicago Tribune

Busing for racial integration of schools continues much in the news from Boston . . . Is it right to thrust upon school authorities and school pupils the task of integrating schools in a de facto segregated society? By now hardly anyone wants busing except federal judges . . .

Busing raises two vast, unsolved issues — crippling, dangerous race prejudices; and the miserable state of many public schools.

In situations where nobody wants it, busings helps neither problem. It is high time the courts ceased making extreme, doctrinaire demands for "racial balance" in public schools . . . Busing? Who in Boston, besides Judge W. Arthur Garrity, wants it?

Thoughts for today

Then Solomon began to build the house of the Lord in Jerusalem on Mount Moriah, where the Lord had appeared to David his father, at the place that David had appointed, on the threshing floor of Onan the Jebusite. — II Chron. 3:1.

Irresponsibility of U.S. leadership

Traditionally the beginning of a new year is a time when we look forward with hope for a better world. Probably nothing would engender greater hope in our country than some indication that our "leaders" would act with intelligence, maturity and integrity. However, if events of recent months are any indication of the future, we will be again disappointed.

President Ford admonished us to "tighten our belts" — then he signed a bill to give 25 billion dollars of our money to railroad bandits. He implores us to "bite the bullet" then he handed 18 billion dollars MORE to weflare parasites so they can prolifically breed more parasites. He gave 8 billion to "aid the construction industry" which is a misnomer for it's really a ripoff to bail the lending agencies out of their pink elephants. He wants us to save fuel so he uses tens of thousands of gallons of fuel to fly to Colorado. This well illustrates his lack of understanding of the world "leader."

I don't mean to single out Ford. The same irresponsibility is displayed by almost everyone in America. We all stood by apathetically while numerous "judges" rewrote our laws and constitution and enforced their biased opinions at the point of guns, completely ignoring the constitutional separation of powers doctrine.

Illustrative of the insanity in this country is that of the ass who, in a letter to the editor of the Progress-Bulletin, called for a prohibition on smoking and drinking in America, in order that the land thus freed could produce food for people overseas. Which brings up two questions; is unrestrained sexual activity preferable to smoking and drinking as he implies?, and more importantly, WHY are Americans obligated to feed the world?, and gratis at that.

Actions urgently needed today are well known to most congressmen but like politicians everywhere, now as always, they don't give a dam about this country or its people. They are intent only upon filling their pockets and getting re-elected in order that they can continue to do so. In one respect Jesse James was an honorable man: he always showed a gun when he robbed.

Some of the most urgent measures that should be taken:

(1) Stop immediately and permanently all unregulated monopolies both in business and labor.

(2) Absolute prohibition of welfare and employment to aliens. More than 4 million Americans are out of work because an alien has their job!

(3) Constitutional termination of deficit spending by all levels of government including such criminal subversion as practiced here in Pomona as "lease back of facilities". In one instance voters three times turned down the irresponsible proposal but city "fathers", in a "to hell with the people attitude," set up a plush "lease back" agreement.

(4) Absolute and immediate prohibition of tax free status to church owned property excepting only actual churches, teaching facilities and homes of ministers provided by the church. Churches in this country operate every conceivable kind of business on taxes. Besides the outrageous injustice of the situation it indicates just how little they are really "religious."

(5) Cessation of welfare to able-bodied adults and absolutely prohibition of welfare to any adult not sterilized. Excepting, of course some women beyond age of child bearing.

(6) This item should probably have been my first. Impeachment and disbarment of hundreds of "judges" for abuse of power.

But, of course, none of these steps will be taken for America is rotten to the core and justice and sanity are not to be found.—O. W. Clark, Pomona.

More on the Klassen Corps

WASHINGTON — In past columns, we have reported on the cozy relationship that exists between the postal authorities who dish out the taxpayers' money and the postal contractors who rake it in.

Here's the latest example we have uncovered — a juicy, $7.1 million deal:

It began three years ago with a scheme to sell commemorative stamp books to generate revenue. This became a pet project of Postmaster General Ted Klassen and then Asst. Postmaster General Ben Bailar.

They awarded a $500,000 contract to the Scott Publishing Co. to handle the project. No other bids were solicited; the contract simply was bequeathed to the company from on high.

In the manner of government manna, the $600,000 quickly began to multiply. Another $2.1 million was added in 1973, then $2.4 million more in 1974. Further modifications ran the grand total to $7.1 million.

Now here's the cozy coincidence. One of Scott's Publishing's vice president's Jack Taub, was a close friend and personal adviser to Bailar.

But it gets even cozier. Scott Publishing needed someone to print the stamp books. The printing contract, adding up to over $1 million, was granted to Industries America.

This happens to be a wholly owned subsidiary of American Can, the company that Klassen and Bailar used to run before they joined the Postal Service.

Bailar contends that he asked his friend Taub to make sure there was competition for the million-dollar printing contract. Taub claims he gave the contract to Industries America, because the paper shortage had left other companies without enough paper to handle the job.

This is disputed by congressional investigators who claim at least half a dozen other firms could have done the printing. But this much is certain: The $7.1 million stamp book deal is typical of the way the Postal Service, under Klassen and Bailar, does business.

Footnote: The questionable contract hasn't hurt Bailar's postal career. He was just promoted to be deputy postmaster general, the No. 2 spot in the postal hierarchy.

CARNIVOROUS SHREDDER: The Kemp Leaf Shredder, which is supposed to chew up autumn leaves, has also shredded the arms of at least a dozen people.

One dentist, trying to push material into the shredder with the stick that comes with the machine, had his hand drawn into the rotating blades. He lost his hand and thus his livelihood.

The danger, according to the confidential Kemp file, was called to the attention of the Consumer Product Safety Commission in September 1973. It took the bureaucrats three full months even to contact the Kemp Co. about the problem.

Not until March 1974 was the Bureau of Standards asked to test the shredder. It took another four months for the bureaucrats to discover the machine was hazardous.

From July until October, memos were exchanged and meetings were held. Finally, in late October, the commission decided to ask the company for a voluntary response.

On Nov. 7, some 14 months after the commission had been alerted to the danger, a warning was issued. It was worded as if the company had just discovered the problem and had voluntarily notified the commission.

Were the dangerous shredders then removed from the market? No, the commission was satisfied with a mechanical "fix" and a warning sign on all machines. A draft press release demonstrates how the bureaucrats protect the consumer. It begins:

"Consumers can protect themselves by taking the following steps: 1. Do not use the machine . . . "

Footnote: A spokesman for the commission explained with refreshing candor that the delays had occurred "because our staff is screwed up." But he contended things are getting straightened out. The Kemp Co., for its part, promised to do what was "morally right," even to the point of going out of business to correct the hazard.

PAUL HARVEY

Rich man, poor man

Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, was booed when he dared to suggest that the well-to-do are suffering, too. "Proportionately," he said, "the stockbroker has suffered more than most wage earners."

Quickly he discovered that there is little vocal support for stockbrokers. They have no union, no organization demanding their dues, expressing their discontent. But stockbrokers can get behind in their rent, even as others can. Stockbrokers' babies can go hungry.

Let's look at the plight of the poor rich people. You can be a $100,000 corporation executive and be in financial trouble these days. Ed Darby tells of one such man who was rewarded by his corporation with a stock option during the balmy days of the late 1960s.

He was given the right to purchase 5,000 shares of the company's stock at $35 a share.

During the bull market of 1968, the stock became worth $50 a share so he exercised his option. He borrowed $175,000 to pay for stock worth $250,000.

To borrow that much money he had to put up his stock as collateral. Then — on paper at least — he was a quarter-millionaire. Assuming the stock went up he could have retired a millionaire. The stock went down instead.

Today that formerly $50 stock is selling for an absurd $7 a share! In recent years, as the stock price shrank, the value of the stock no longer covered the amount of his loan. He was asked for additional collateral. He mortgaged his house.

Today he has stock worth $35,000 — but he owes the bank $175,000. Worse, on that borrowed money he is not paying just 6 per cent interest any more; he is required to pay 13 per cent interest.

And if he defaults, the bank will sell his stock — his one-time estate of a quarter-million dollars will be gone — and he'll still owe the bank $140,000.

This problem is not limited to the executive with mortgaged stock. Many small businesses were built on borrowed money, using stock as collateral. Those businessmen are sweating blood these days to keep up their interest payments on that loan.

Bankers will tell you that borrowers who were never tardy before in making interest payments are now 30 days late — some 60 days late. Their expenses are higher, due to inflation, and their investments are worth less due to recession. And, in some cases, their high-salaried jobs are in jeopardy.

Again and understandably there is little compassion for the poor rich people. Also, it is likely that most will cut back and spend their reserves and hang on and make do until the stock market rallies again.

But all rich people are less rich now, and some are poor. Most have known they can't take it with them; now they hope they can just make it last till they go.

Just in jest

And what have our institutions of higher learning been doing recently to help make life a bit more bearable? Well, this week special mention should be given to a study under way at Indiana University. Researchers there are busy measuring the amount of sweat on people's hands and feet under various specified conditions. — Isn't it strange, however, that no effort is being made to measure the sweat of the brow by which mankind is supposed to earn his keep? But then, why ask for miracles? Before even the most dedicated scientist can start measuring something he must first find it.

At the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, however, the researchers have devoted their energies to something maybe a bit more practical. There they have finally disproved the ancient theory that alcohol and gasoline should never be mixed. In fact, carefully conducted tests show that cars operating on a mixture of 70 per cent gasoline and 30 percent wood alcohol get better mileage and improved performance.

RAY CROMLEY

Tax cuts may rob Peter to pay Paul

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Don't cheer too loudly or too soon over reports President Ford may push for tax cuts. A reduction in federal taxes, if it comes, may well be offset by increased state and local levies.

More and more states and cities are running into intolerable financial pressures. Nationwide, the gap between revenues and expenditures may already be running at a $20 billion a year rate.

The prospects for 1975 are even more depressing. Without an increase in taxes, the margin between income and the cost of running state and local governments may hit an astounding $25 billion.

The recession is cutting sharply into real dollar revenues, particularly in those localities which depend on property taxes and in those states which count heavily on gasoline, cigarette and liquor levies.

The grinding increase in unemployment, an increase expected to continue well into 1975, will put very heavy pressures on a fistful of state and local budgets, despite the boosts in federal unemployment assistance schedules and in Washington-funded public service jobs recently voted by Congress.

Three states are already borrowing from the special unemployment insurance trust fund operated by the Department of Labor. So is the District of Columbia. More states will be forced to dip into this bucket soon, if current unemployment projections are accurate.

The major increases in construction costs will have a major effect on state and local governments, responsible as they are for 85 per cent of public construction.

By and large, state, county and city employes are determined they have a great deal of catching up to do in wages. These pressures, if successful, will add to the costs of government.

In other days, bond issues have been life savers, stimulating local employment and carrying cities and states through difficult times. But voters lately have turned down local bond issues with increasing frequency. Even where borrowing is authorized, localities, like average citizens, are finding it exceedingly difficult to find money at tolerable rates.

Even this sad recounting does not tell the whole story. Local tax increases alone are not likely to be enough to meet the crunch in the more depressed areas. A considerable number of states and localities will likely be forced to cut into their services and lay off employes, if government projections being developed here are at all accurate.

The problems which states, counties and cities face are not new, of course. It was difficulties of the type outlined above which drove the Nixon administration to push for, and Congress to grant, a limited amount of revenue sharing. The cities, nevertheless, are in a special bind. Their long-term problems have been accentuated by the flight to the suburbs of business, industry and the middle class during a period when inner cities have faced irresistable pressures for increased services.

We must not delude ourselves into believing a few billion dollars for unemployment compensation and public service jobs added to billions already voted for welfare, education and other local needs, will solve the difficulties of our cities, counties and states.

We would like to correct an answer which appeared in the Heartline column for Dec. 25. This was the question asked in the column:

HEARTLINE: I paid into Social Security for 30 years while I was in the Armed services. I am now retired on military pension. Can I get Social Security also? — M. P.

The original answer, obtained directly from the Social Security Press office in Baltimore, Md., was "No." Due to calls questioning the validity of the answer, Heartline checked back with the Social Security Press Office. They extended apologies along with the correct answer which follows:

ANSWER: Yes, any years you paid into Social Security while in the military will be used to compute benefits for Social Security retirement.

Heartline: My mother is on Medicare. She just had a Pap test. Is this covered under Medicare? — S. H.

Answer: Not for routine check-up purposes. However, if it was for diagnostic reasons in connection with directly related symptom or complaint, it would be covered under Part B of Medicare.

Heartline: Why does it take Social Security until the following year to credit income you make to your Social Security pension account? — T. S.

Answer: Social Security does not receive these forms until after they have been submitted to IRS from your employer. Therefore, the processing of the paperwork is a lengthy procedure.

Heartline: I'm covered under the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program. I am also eligible for Medicare. Do I need both? — M. D.

Answer: Separately, Medicare and the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program provide excellent insurance coverage; however, neither will pay the full cost of your medical bills. Many federal annuitants have found that a Low Option enrollment in their Federal Health Benefits Plan, in conjunction with an enrollment in Medicare, will cover-in-full most of the medical expenses they incur and at a very low monthly premium cost. Federal employees and annuitants can switch to the Low Option enrollment any time after reaching age 65. Due to the wide variance of benefits in the individual health plans offered to federal employees and annuitants, specific questions of this type should be directed to the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Bureau of Retirement, Insurance and Occupational Health, 1900 E Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20415.

Honeybees of Africa a dangerous species

The honeybees hereabouts are not particularly dangerous. Except maybe to those citizens especially allergic to the stings of same. But there are honeybees in Africa that are indeed dangerous, exceedingly dangerous. Swarms sometimes attack people, killing them. Livestock, too. Unfortunately, some scissorbill imported them into Brazil a couple of years ago, and now they're spreading across South America. It's expected they'll show up here in the next few years.

OHIO'S Woody Hayes has turned out more All-Americans, more pro draftees and more head coaches than any other football coach in history. But can he sing?

MIRRORS

The bodies of a remarkably large number of people who kill themselves are found in front of mirrors.

ITEM NO. 1876B in our Love and War man's file labeled "Broken Engagements" reads: "I knew my girlfriend and I were all washed up when she put my photograph in the bottom of her bird cage."

Q. "WHERE'S the town of Stirville?"

A. That was long the underworld slang name for Ossining, N.Y., site of Sing Sing prison. Hot Springs, Ark., was known as Bubbles, Richmond, Va., as Grantsville and Chicago as the Village, might add.

CHOU EN-LAI

It's a matter of record that Dr. Henry Kissinger several years ago asked Chou En-lai to theorize on what might have happened if Nikita Khrushchev had been assassinated instead of John F. Kennedy. Chou reportedly mulled it a moment and said, "I don't believe Mr. Onassis would have married Mrs. Khrushchev."

THERE ARE 3,600 kinds of mammals in North America. And 2,150 of them are rodents. Depressing, isn't it? Not to the owls and snakes and foxes, it isn't. What carnivorus critters eat far more than anything else is raw rodent.

IT'S ALSO true, Hugh that a number of 20,000-year-old cave drawings are pornographic.

Catholic position on birth control reasserted by Pope Paul's Encyclical

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell "Very Anonymous" that she is "Very Mistaken," along with other Catholics who believe it is a sin to use contraceptives.

I am a Catholic and several years ago, after having five children, my husband and I visited a cousin who had just gotten his master's degree from Boston College. He told us that using artificial birth control was not considered a sin—that non-use was a "suggestion," and not given by the Pope from the seat of infallibility. I was shocked to hear this and was sure he was wrong.

I then wrote to a priest who answered questions in a Catholic magazine. His reply came (along with a letter) saying "it is NOT a sin." He said the Church preferred that Catholics not interfere with birth, but that it was "a personal decision."

I've had doctors tell me that the rhythm system fails about 15 per cent of the time. For couples who feel their families are large enough, this system is not very safe. The woman has no peace of mind from one month to the next. It's a nerve-wracking way to live.

So please, Ann, print this letter and liberate a large number of women who don't know the facts. It could be a great service.—From Massachusetts

Dear Mass.: I consulted one of the most knowledgeable Jesuits in the country to get my answer. Reverend Richard McCormick, Professor at the Kennedy Institute of Georgetown University in Washington, D.C., and former President of the Catholic Theological Society of America, said: "Your Boston cousin's statement is incorrect. Pope Paul's Encyclical on Humane Vitae, issued on July 29, 1968, authoritatively reasserted the traditional Catholic position on birth control, the basic concept being that the use of contraceptives is inherently evil and should be shunned.

"The reaction to the Encyclical among Catholic theologians created a great deal of dissention. Many theologians and some bishops felt that Pope Paul had not faced up to the conflictive character of the values of married life, and that birth control techniques should be left to the individual couples."

Father McCormick made it clear that abortions are not included among the "techniques."

In answer to your question, "Is it a sin?"—some priests and even some bishops who did not agree with Pope Paul's Encyclical have given the green light to Catholic couples who ask that question. Many others take the traditional view. According to two recent studies, almost as many Catholics use contraceptives as those of other faiths.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am kicking myself because I think I've been outfoxed. A woman I used to be friendly with telephoned last night to say she and her husband heard we are giving a party and their invitation must have been lost in the mail because so many of our mutual friends have received theirs. She added, "I know you wouldn't leave us out!"

I was so stunned, I replied, "Of course we sent you an invitation. I'm glad you called."

They were not on our list and now I'm annoyed with myself. On the other hand, Ann, what could I have said to her?—Two Too Many

Dear T.: You could have said, "No, we didn't send you an invitation, but we hope to invite you another time."

The best way to protect yourself against people with chutzpah is to combat it with some of your own.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

RATTLES & STRAWS

Disaster movies mostly disasters

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

What do the following films have in common? "The Poseidon Adventure," "Airport," "Earthquake," "The Towering Inferno" and "Airport 1975?"

In each movie, six superstars, 11 featured players and 1,263 extras were killed—and each one is a box office smash, reaffirming sage old P.T. Barnum's favorite aphorism, "There's a sucker born every minute."

The suckers obviously do not include the creators of these so-called disaster films, which are a diaster everywhere but at the box office. "Poseidon," the pioneer catastrophe, has already grossed $141 million. Another good calamity like that and 20th Century-Fox could buy California. (Who would want to?)

Hard in the wake of ill-fated Poseidon came "Airport" and the others, and the cameras are whirring on "The Hindenberg," "Phase IV" (marching ants), "The Haephestus Plague" (earthquake AND giant cockroaches), "Chosen Survivors" (nuclear fallout AND vampire bats), "Snowbound" (avalanche), "The Swarm" (bees) and "The Day the World Ended" (volcano).

The moviemakers, as you see, are getting hard-pressed to top each other's calamitous imbecilities, so they have taken to combining disasters. In "Survivors" people flee to underground caverns to avoid atomic fallout and are met by swarms of vampire bats. In "Plague," the earthquake releases giant cockroaches. (Expert special effects men now earn as much as the stars of the show.)

Although not an unduly greedy type, I think it would be peachy keen to have $141 million to wade about in, so I am writing my own disaster film, and if you promise not to reveal the ending, I will sketch an outline of the plot for you. (Cross your heart!)

"Gosh!" (that's the title) opens when a crazed maniac, recently released from prison (I see Bob Newhart in the title role) runs amok in the cab of a 747 (which was previously hijacked by the Palestinian Oriental League) and causes the giant plane to crash into the Hindenberg which at that moment was flying over the Empire State Building in New York. I forgot to say that the skyscraper was already on fire because of a massive earthquake (12.8 on the Firman Scale) which had released a horde of giant rats from centuries old caverns deep beneath the IRT and BMT.

Now the movie begins to get exciting. The earthquake has also caused a tidal wave which has submerged Staten Island, causing a long-extinct volcano to erupt, hurling tons of flaming ashes and sackcloth over lower Manhattan and parts of the Bronx and Queens. Naturally the tidal wave topples the Statue of Liberty (played by Raquel Welch) and Shea Stadium, killing 48,000 Met fans who refused to heed the warning to leave because the Mets had the bases loaded in the last of the ninth. (Most of the fans are loaded, also.)

Not wanting to give away the whole plot of "Gosh!" I will only make passing allusion to the vampire bats, the unexpected hurricane, the nuclear attack by the Russians, and the invasion of the men from Mars.

At the end of the film, the theater collapses killing all the viewers and destroying the popcorn machine.

You gotta admit my movie is going to be a disaster.

Sour-cream substitute is low in fat

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother used to have a recipe for sour cream she got from you. She said it was wonderful, but she has lost it. Could you send it to me? I use a lot of sour cream.

DEAR READER — She must mean the sour cream substitute recipe from my book "What You Need to Know About Food and Cooking for Health (Viking Press). You can find it and many other recipes to prepare low-fat, low-cholesterol foods in that book and hopefully your local library will have one or more copies of it. Many people like yourself do like sour cream, whipped cream and other foods that are normally high in fat. By using low-fat dairy products and special recipes you can still have these things and not risk increasing your blood cholesterol or increasing the chances of having heart and vascular disease.

The sour cream substitute recipe is typical of what you can do in the kitchen for your family. Just mix together ¼ cup of nonfat milk powder and ½ cup of cold water. Blend this with 8 ounces of uncreamed cottage cheese, two teaspoons of lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon of salt. Keep it refrigerated until used.

This recipe will give you lots of protein and calcium, both good for most people.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've heard that sudden enlargement of a mole can be a sign of cancer. Is this true?

I'm 33 and have begun to notice several tiny moles that have appeared over parts of my body, and I'm sure they weren't there before. Is this anything to worry about?

It has been suggested by doctors that two rather large moles, which I've had most of my life, be removed. Other doctors have said they shouldn't be touched. What is correct?

Are there any serious consequences if a mole is nicked by shaving? Anything you can tell me about moles would be appreciated.

DEAR READER — A mole is really a new growth of skin, and it is usually a congenital growth. When they are brown it is because they contain lots of the cells producing the melanin pigment that causes sun tanning and freckles. Most moles are harmless, but they can be dangerous. Some become malignant melanomas, a particularly nasty type of cancer.

If a mole starts enlarging or showing any changes at all it should be surgically removed. Also, if it is in a location where it is being irritated by a belt or shaving or any other factor it should be removed. When it comes to moles I am a great believer in the old surgical dictum, "When in doubt, cut it out."

I have never known anyone to have any problems from the surgical removal of a mole. I have seen people who have neglected new growth of moles and developed incurable cancer.

After reading similar remarks in one of my columns some time ago a woman went to her doctor who removed a mole that proved to be a malignant melanoma. Her rapid response to the information and the prompt action of her doctors gave her a chance to survive. A good prevention program is to remove any moles that are in any way a possible site for future trouble.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of the Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Losing Weight" booklet.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Gold rush has become a gold bust

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gold, it appears, has laid an egg.

In the early going, at least, the expected gold rush is more of a gold bust.

Lifting of the ban on gold trading in this country touched off a frenzy of apathy. Dealers found they had struck the mother lode of indifference. And gold prices on the international market dropped accordingly.

What caused gold to lose the desirability that had made it the symbol of wealth since the early cave man?

All sorts of explanations have been set forth. My neighbor, Fermus Auug, for example, suspects it is the result of water flouridation.

"All that fluorine we've been drinking has made us immune to gold fever," Auug told me over the back fence.

But Augg also blamed fluoridation for the fizzling of the Edsel and the comet Kohoutek. So we should await further evidence on that point.

A more likely explanation is that during the 41 years that gold trading was prohibited people forgot what it was that made gold so coveted in the first place.

We remember the expression "as good as gold." But we can't recall why gold was good.

At least that was the reaction I got in a series of man-in-the street interviews.

"Sir," I said, to the first man I accosted, "are you planning to buy any gold now that private ownership of bullion is legal gain?"

"I dunno," he replied. "What good is gold?"

I pointed out that gold was remarkably workable, ductile enough to be drawn into fine wire, yet malleable enough to be hammered into thin sheets.

"I can do the same thing with Silly Putty," the interviewee retorted, unimpressed. "Does it also bounce?"

I conceded that gold did not rebound as well as Silly Putty. But, I noted, it glitters better.

"You still haven't answered my question: what good is it?"

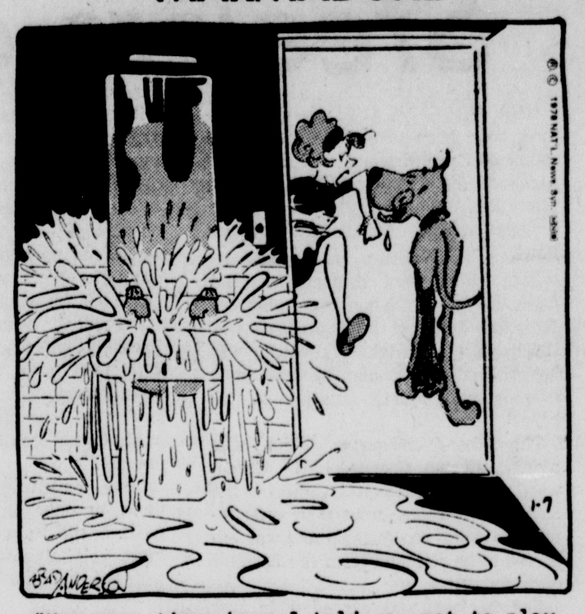

I said as far as I knew the chief practical use of gold, apart from making jewelry, was to make fillings in teeth.

"Do I look like a dentist?" The interviewee spun on his heel indignantly and stalked off.

Well, that gives you an idea of what gold dealers are up against, and I'm sure glad I don't have to unload any of the stuff.

But it's good to know that if you've ever in the mood to gild a lilly, you don't have to break the law.

What people say

"While in the poor state of language in the United States may not be at the heart of our problems, it isn't divorced from them either. It is at least conceivable that our politics would be improved if our English was, and so would other parts of our national life. If we were more careful about what we say, and how, we might be more critical and less gullible."

Steelers count on defense

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The pictures have been taken, the on-the-field interviews granted and now it's time for both the Pittsburgh Steelers and Minnesota Vikings to get down to some serious training for Sunday's Super Bowl.

Both clubs went through informal workouts Monday but a noted absentee from the Steelers' brief practice was defensive end Dwight White who was hospitalized Sunday night with stomach cramps and muscle spasms in his back.

The 6-foot-4, 255-pound White, who along with Joe Greene, L. C. Greenwood and Ernie Holmes comprise the Steelers' ferocious front four, was reported resting comfortably and was expected to be released from the hospital early today.

The Steelers, who earned their first Super Bowl appearance ever with playoff victories over Buffalo and Oakland, were the No. 1 defensive team in the American Football Conference. In addition to allowing the fewest points and the least yards, Pittsburgh also led the entire National Football League in quarterback sacks with 52, with the front four accounting for 40 of them.

"Going against that Steeler defense will certainly be a challenge for us," said Vikings quarterback Fran Tarkenton. "It figures to be a disciplined game with their defense matched against ours. Pittsburgh is a lot like us on defense —big and strong. Nobody's gonna run up and down the field Sunday. The team with consistency will come out the winner."

Tarkenton, who led the National Football Conference in passing yardage with 2,598 yards and threw 17 touchdown passes, will try to keep the Steelers' front four off balance by mixing in his famed scrambling along with his passing.

"I've gotten to him (Tarkenton) three or four times during my six years in the league," Greenwood said. "But he's always completing passes with me hanging on. Tarkenton very definitely poses a problem. We'll probably have to chase him all over the field."

"He very definitely forces us to change our normal alignment and the way we break off the line of scrimmage," Holmes added. "Tarkenton is durable and able to throw on the run. I think I've gotten to him once in three years."

The Vikings will enter Super Bowl IX with two losses in as many previous Super Bowl appearances, including last year's 24-7 loss to the Miami Dolphins, and Minnesota offensive tackle Ron Yary was asked if this would spur his club on.

"Losing here twice before...that should be incentive enough," Yary said. "But if anything will help us it will be in preparation. The Steelers beat you at the basics...they're very strong and physical like us."

Despite Minnesota's two previous Super Bowl appearances, Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll refuses to think his team will be at a disadvantage because of the Vikings' experience.

"Experience in playoff games didn't help Oakland when we played them for the AFC championship," Noll said. "What you do on the field that day is all that counts."

Tarkenton was in full agreement, adding, "You can talk about psychological this and psychological that. What it all comes down to is how you play Sunday. Nobody can predict that."

Jack Lambert, the Steelers' rookie middle linebacker, is willing to venture an opinion, however.

"If we play our best, we'll win," said the 22-year-old graduate of Kent State who was Pittsburgh's No. 2 draft choice last year and stepped into a starting role in the club's third exhibition game following an injury to Henry Davis.

"We plan to enjoy ourselves this week but we're here to get a job done."

The final stages of preparing for that "job" begin today.

It's prediction time again

Well, it's that time of the year again.

Basketball season is a month old, and I'm itching to let everyone know how the league races are going to end up.

Well . . . at least how I THINK they'll end up, anyway.

In the San Antonio League, it's obvious.

The Garey High Vikings are just too powerful. They've got to be the heavy favorites this year. They even have an excellent chance of being ranked No. 1 in the first CIF 3-A basketball poll which will be released later this week.

Second place in the SAL should be a real dogfight, with four teams figuring to claw it out.

But when the race comes down to the wire, it should be Claremont winning that position. Ganesha, with only a couple of cold shooting nights, will have to settle for third.

The race for the fourth and final upper division spot will go to Chino, while Damien has to be satisfied with a fifth place.

There could be another battle for the last three spots, but when it's over Montclair will be in sixth, Pomona in seventh, and Upland will be the dungeon dwellar.

So here it is — the finish as just described:

1. Garey
2. Claremont
3. Ganesha
4. Chino
5. Damien
6. Montclair
7. Pomona
8. Upland

It should be a three-team race in the Hacienda League, with Walnut, Bonita and Alta Loma all scratching for the top spot.

If Walnut head coach Bill Murray is correct in stating that his Mustangs are better than last year, then there's no doubt the Mustangs will take it.

It's going to be close though.

Walnut should come out on top, but will win all the marbles for the second consecutive year by only one game.

The team that will be giving the Mustangs a tough time will be Bonita . . . while Alta Loma has to settle for a 'show' finish.

After that, it's anybody's ball game.

But keep an eye on San Dimas. The Saints are very well coached and could improve steadily throughout the remainder of the season. So give them a fourth place.

Then the two non-valley schools will follow — Gladstone and Sierra Vista — followed by Ontario and Royal Oak.

Here's a quick look at how they'll finish:

1. Walnut
2. Bonita
3. Alta Loma
4. San Dimas
5. Gladstone
6. Sierra Vista
7. Ontario
8. Royal Oak

★ ★ ★

You can count on Chaffey and Charter Oak also claiming titles in their leagues.

Chaffey and Fontana will head into the home stretch neck-and-neck in the Citrus Belt League, with the Tigers winning it by a game.

Charter Oak will fight off some inconsistencies and emerge as Montview League champion. You can also give Nogales an outside chance of knocking off the Lancers.

Oh yes, we can't forget the Knights of Ontario Christian. They've only lost once this year, so they have an excellent shot at the Olympic League title.

In fact, I'll give it to them.

Walnut rebuilds into powerhouse

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

How can a team lose its entire starting unit from a league championship club and expect to retain its title?

Ask Walnut High head basketball coach Bill Murray. He thinks he has done it.

The Mustangs captured the Hacienda League championship last year with a perfect 14-0 league record and a 26-3 season mark. But they lost all five starters to graduation, and this year figured to be a rebuilding year.

Not so.

Picking up a few players from a talented junior varsity club and combining them with a couple of last year's top varsity reserves, Murray has built another powerhouse.

Walnut takes the first step toward defending its crown Wednesday afternoon when the Hacienda League unveils its 1975 season.

With a team Murray describes as "better than last year's," the Mustangs will visit Gladstone in the lid lifter, beginning at 3:15 p.m.

Walnut, however, won't have an easy time in its bid for a second consecutive title. Both Bonita and Alta Loma figure to give the Mustangs a rough time.

Bonita, with six returning starters on its roster, will start off by hosting Alta Loma in what figures to be the best Hacienda outing of the day.

In the other two openers, Ontario hosts San Dimas and Royal Oak entertains Sierra Vista.

The league didn't fare too well in the non-league competition during December. Only two teams — Walnut and Alta Loma — enter league play with winning records.

Walnut, obviously, posts the best record of the eight teams with a misleading 9-4 mark. Three of those losses weere one-pointers (two to Miraleste) and the other a four-pointer.

The Mustangs are led by forward Ken Czarnecki, who is averaging 15.1 points an outing. Then comes his fellow front line mate Cliff Manning with a 13.7 average, guard Kelly Bowlin with an 11.5 average, and center Jay Wetzel with his 10.3 output.

The only Walnut starter who hasn't averaged in double figures is guard Tommy Thompson. But the 6-0, 160 pound senior does his damage in a different form.

Earlier this year, Thompson established a CIF record by coming up with 18 assists in one game. That's 36 points he got partial credit for.

Bonita's strength lies in hot-shooting forward Harold (H.P.) Drake and 6-foot-3 center Steve Sly. Drake is averaging 24.2 points per game, while the much-improved Sly is holding a 19.3 average.

The other Bearcat starters include forward Russ Tyner and guards Scott Johnson and Dave Drury. Larry Franco may also see a starting role in Drury's spot.

Don't let Bonita's record fool you. The Bearcats (only 2-7 for the season) lost their first four games of the season when three of their starters were still playing football. They've lost three in a row, but two were to Claremont and one to Ganesha.

Valley teams place seven on CIF clubs

Seven valley high school football players were voted to the All-CIF 2-A grid squads, it was announced today by the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation.

Two other valley players were selected to the 1-A All-CIF squads.

Bonita High's Harold Drake and Royal Oak High's Frank Malicki, the two Valley High School Players of the Year, were among the seven listed in the 2-A.

Drake, the Offensive Player of the Year, was placed in the first team backfield. Malicki, the Defensive Player of the Year, was listed as a first-team linebacker.

All-CIF list, page 15

Other first-teamers on the offense were Walnut guard Rick Packer and Royal Oak center Don Dutton. Joining Malicki on the first team defense is Royal Oak defensive back Larry Vicino.

End Mike Eropkin of Rowland and guard Ross Thompson of Bonita were placed on the second team.

The two valley players who were named to the 1-A team were Ontario Christian linebacker Jon Veenendaal and Webb linebacker Doug McGowan. Both were placed on the second team.

Curt Oppedahl, senior captain of Neff's 2-A division champion Trojans, and Whittier Christian's senior fullback Richard Gebhard have been named the 1974 Players of the Year in the 2-A and 1-A divisions.

The All-CIF 3-A team will be announced on Wednesday followed by the 4-A squad on Thursday.

Wooden, Boyd predict battle

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Wooden and Bob Boyd, who had the Pacific Eight Conference race to themselves last year, look for a more wideopen battle in 1975.

"Anybody can beat anybody in this conference," Boyd, the University of Southern California coach, told the Southern California basketball writers' luncheon Monday.

"Some favored teams will lose on the road," Boyd said. "Enough has been said about how good the conference is, though. I'm anxious to get going."

Wooden, whose UCLA teams have won the conference title for eight straight years, thinks the race will boil down to four teams.

"I won't mention the names, but I wouldn't be surprised if any of four teams won it," Wooden said. "The conference is better balanced. All eight teams could beat anybody on a given night."

Wooden's Bruins, 10-0 with wins over Maryland and Notre Dame, open conference play Thursday night at Pauley Pavilion against Washington. The Trojans, 9-1, meet Washington State at the Sports Arena Friday night.

UCLA bombed USC, 82-52, in its conference finale last year to win the championship by a game.

Wooden has deviated from his normal practice this season by playing nine or 10 players regularly. He usually uses seven or eight regulars during the conference season.

"It's going to be more difficult to settle on seven or eight players this year," he said. "I like different players in different situations."

Wooden, in his 27th year as UCLA coach, is enjoying the challenge of coaching an inexperienced team.

"Younger teams play with more intensity," he said. "They make more mistakes, too. They're more fun to coach."

Wooden, who was the object of an NCAA decision to require coaches to keep their locker rooms open to the media after NCAA playoff games, said "I just would like to stay in a position to have rule changes directed at me and my team."

Wooden said he will comply with the new rulings but has "not changed my feelings about it one iota."

"A crowded dressing room is just no place to conduct interviews," said Wooden, who has banned reporters from his locker rooms in the past. "It's not a good policy to have outsiders, which, I feel, is anyone not closely associated with the team."

UCLA's Marques Johnson and Pepperdine's Dick Skophammer shared the Adohr Farms' university division player of the week award while 6-6 junior center Brian Sanders of Redlands earned the college division honor.

Stabler free from contract with Americans

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Ruling the Birmingham Americans of the World Football League violated their three-year pact with Oakland Raiders quarterback Ken Stabler, a circuit court judge Monday released Stabler from the contract.

Circuit Court Judge William C. Barber ruled the Americans, by not paying $30,000 of the $100,000 promised the National Football League star in the first year of his contract, violated the pact. Barber said Stabler was "free from any obligation under any terms of this contract."

While Stabler played out his option with the Raiders, he was to receive $100,000 in each the first two years of his agreement with the Americans. In 1976, the year he was to start playing for the Birmingham team, he was to receive $135,000. He was also to receive incentive bonuses and other considerations.

Paying Stabler $50,000 in cash when he signed the contract, the league champion Americans, plagued by financial troubles through most of the last half of the WFL's initial season, used the quarterback's name in promoting the new franchise.

Women's sports get lift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Women's sports on national campuses had come a little way, baby, today at the convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The all-male executive council of the NCAA came out strongly in favor of a pilot program encouraging national team championship competition for women in 11 sports on the same scale that now exists for men's sports.

The council advocated that national women's championships be conducted this year for track and field and tennis to be followed in subsequent years by nine other sports. Progressively these would be: cross country, basketball, golf, field hockey, gymnastics, softball, badminton, skiing and volly ball.

The move came as the delegates to the convention honored President Ford with their highest award before starting to vote on a formidable number of amendments aimed at solving economic problems besetting university and college athletic departments and possibly cracking down on recruiting and other ethical abuses.

Ford was honored by the NCAA as the winner of the Theodore Roosevelt award for his contributions to American sports at lunch prior to the convention's first voting session.

In announcing Monday that the council was urging the women's championships, David Swank of Oklahoma, a council member, said the equal rights movement means that colleges, "will have to offer intercollegiate championship competition for women compatible to that provided men."

He also predicted that college recruiting of women athletic stars is inevitable in the future: "I believe recruiting already is beginning for women."

Before taking up floor consideration of a number of controversial proposals, the NCAA mounted a broadscale attack on the U.S. Olympic committee on both the legal and legislative fronts.

Attorneys for the NCAA disclosed Monday that they have filed a federal court suit which challanges moves by the USOC last month to set up a system of compulsory arbitration for settling jurisdictional disputes over the makeup of U.S. teams in international games.

An NCAA committee also urged President Ford to set up a commission to review the Olympic committee's operations. The convention also advocated that Congress act on legislation to create a commission to oversea U.S. participation in the Olympics.

Chino's ace trackster heads field in Sunkist

LOS ANGELES — Chino High's Jayson Law heads a field of elite 500-yard runners Saturday night, Jan. 18 in the 16th annual Sunkist Indoor Invitational at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Law will run in the high school section of the meet which precedes the open competition where standout world athletes like Brendon Foster of Great Britain, Mike Boit of Kenya and Americans Steve Williams, Casey Carrigan and Rick Wohlhuter vie.

All athletes who compete in races 500-yards or longer will test what is reported to be the fastest indoor track ever made.

The meet is identical to the San Diego indoor track where the 600, mile and two-mile records have been set.

Law will be in one of two divisions, running against the likes of Ells High's (Richmond) Dedy Cooper, a 47.9 quarter-mile who was second in the state 440 last year.

A 48.6 (relay leg) in the 440, 9.6 100 and 21.6 in the 220 make Law an obvious favorite. Others in the field include CIF frosh-soph champ Donn Thompson of Gahr High (49.8), Compton's Jeff Sexton (49.4) and possibly Brian Theriot of Newport Harbor, who ran 47.6 last year but has been ill

Teammates say Wilson will be sorely missed

HOUSTON (UPI) — Don Wilson's Houston Astro teammates remember the pitcher as a fierce competitor they could count on and as a friend.

"He was a tremenrous competitor on and off the field," outfielder Bob Watson said Monday. "He was the guy we looked to for leadership. I really felt this year he was going to be the leader of our ballclub.

"He will be sorely missed."

Wilson, 29, and his five-year-old son, Alexander, died Sunday of carbon monoxide poisoning. Wilson was found in his garage, slumped over in the front seat of his luxury car. The fumes from the engine seeped into the house where Alexander was asleep.

Wilson's wife, Bernice, 27, and nine-year-old daughter, Denise, also were overcome. Doctors said today Mrs. Wilson is in fair condition, but Denise is in a coma and in critical condition.

An autopsy report released Monday said Wilson's blood had an alcohol content of .167. The legal percentage for drunkeness is .10.

"For the purpose of driving he was over one and a half times drunk or under the influence," Dr. Joseph Jachimcyzk said. "He would have been booked for driving while intoxicated."

Police hoped to question Mrs. Wilson, who also suffered a bruised jaw, to determine what happened. Police theorize the deaths were accidental.

Wilson, a righthander known for his fastball, spent his entire nine-season career with the Astros. His pitching record in the majors included two no-hit games. He won 10 games and lost 13 last season.

"Don went out of his way to look out for me," Astro pitcher Tom Griffin said. "You might say he took me under his wing. He was a good human being, a generous person, a nice person."

Memorial services for Wilson were scheduled for Thursday. He probably will be buried in his native California.

Lakers on road without Sharman

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers, minus coach Bill Sharman, open a four-game road trip tonight against the Buffalo Braves.

Sharman, Laker general manager Pete Newell and owner Jack Kent Cooke are in Salt Lake City to testify in a lawsuit brought by the ABA Utah Stars against Sharman.

The Stars, who Sharman coached before joining the Lakers in 1971, have charged the coach breached his contract by leaving the team.

The Lakers have filed a counter suit against the Stars, charging that the team is interfering with Sharman's performance of duties as Laker coach.

Laker assistant coach John Barnhill will direct the team against the Braves tonight. Los Angeles meets Philadelphia on Wednesday, Boston on Friday and Washington on Saturday before the week-long All-Star break.

No. 1 Indiana rolls

Michigan State celebrates

By United Press International

Michigan State's basketball team stopped fighting among its own players Monday night, and that was bad news for Ohio State.

The Buckeyes happened to be Michigan State's first opponent since Saturday's suspension of 10 black players and their reinstatement on Sunday and the Spartans won the Big Ten game, 88-84, at home.

Lindsay Hairston and Terry Furlow, two of the players who missed Saturday's 52-point loss to Indiana in which Michigan State used mostly junior varsity players, combined for 45 points against Ohio State.

Hairston, the team captain, scored 26, and Furlow added 19.

Jeff Tropf, a white freshman who was the only active player not suspended in what Coach Gus Ganakas called a "lovers' quarrel," scored six points and led his team with 11 rebounds.

"The problem is rectified, as far as the coach and players are concerned," Ganakas said. "Outside of here, they'll be talking about this for years."

The victory gave Michigan State a 7-3 record while Ohio State dropped to 6-6. The Buckeyes were led by Craig Taylor's 22 points and the 21 by Bill Andreas.

Meanwhile, Indiana, the nation's new No. 1 team, beat No. 11 Michigan 90-76 at Ann Arbor in a meeting of last year's Big 10 co-champions.

Kentucky, ranked ninth, whipped Georgia 96-77; No. 13 Arizona barely got by Northern Arizona 78-77; No. 14 Marquette topped San Diego State 58-54, and 16th-ranked South Carolina topped Fordham 94-67.

Steve Green scored 26 points, Scott May 20 and John Laskowski 19 for Indiana, which raised its record to 13-0 this season. Michigan, 9-2, which saw a 17-game home court winning streak snapped, got 18 points from center C. J. Kupec.

Kevin Grevey scored 32 points, 18 of them in the second half, to lead Kentucky past Georgia, but Arizona had to overcome 20-point efforts by David Benning and Nate Payne to hold off the upset bid of seven-time loser Northern Arizona.

Scores of other major games included: LSU 92 Florida 91, Kansas 79 St. Louis 72, Tulane 84 SMU 80, Houston 86 Dayton 85, Texas Tech 72 Oklahoma State 62, Illinois State 107 Oral Roberts 98, UC-Santa Barbara 89 Oklahoma 71.

The basketball teams of Pepperdine and UC-Irvine ran their records to 9-2 each with strong victories.

The Waves hit 62 per cent of their shots in a 97-77 win over Grace College of Winona Lake, Ind. Guard Art Allen went for 29 points in that victory. Dave Baker and Jerry Maras combined for 51 points as UC-Irvine grabbed the 83-67 win over Puget Sound for their eighth win in their last nine outings.

UC Santa Barbara and Fresno State, meanwhile, ran their records to 8-3 each. The Gauchos got 29 points from Don Ford in an 89-71 win over Oklahoma, while Fresno State had 18 by Roy Jones in taking the 65-62 verdict at UC-Davis.

In other action, UOP ran its record to 6-6 with an easy 86-71 win over Morehead State as Myron Jordan scored the first eight points and wound up with 18.

Tonight's schedule finds Washington State hosting San Diego in its final tuneup before the Pac-8 conference play begins. Seattle Pacific is at Seattle; Chico State at San Jose State and Long Beach State at Wichita.

Montclair hosts Colton champs

Montclair High's girl's field hockey team will face unbeaten and defending Southern Section champion Colton tonight in a very unusual night event.

The Montclair club will put its junior varsity team on the Cavalier football field at 6 p.m., and then the varsity teams will clash at 7 p.m.

Colton enters the contest with an 8-0 record.

Claremont opens SAL soccer slate

Can anyone stop Claremont High in San Antonio League soccer action?

The other seven SAL teams will set out to do just that beginning Wednesday afternoon, when the league season gets underway.

Claremont, the three-time defending SAL champion, looks to be the favorite again this year and will open against Pomona at the Red Devil field Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Chino will host Webb School, Ganesha entertains Montclair, and Damien visits Garey.

The Pomona-Claremont and Webb-Chino contests are scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m., while the face-off for the other two battles is slated for 3 p.m.

Claremont is returning several of last year's starters, including CIF record-holder Gesner DoCarmo from Brazil.

DoCarmo holds the CIF mark for most goals scored in a season after he booted in 46 last year.

Pomona should have tough time with coach Otto Rieger's Wolfpack.

Chino should be favored over Webb in their opener, with the Cowboys being led by returnees Ed Marquez and Victor Campos.

Ganesha should also have an edge in its opener with Montclair, with such top returnees as David Segura and Edwin Lopez.

Probably the most interesting match-up of the day will be the Damien- Garey confrontation.

Damien, runnerup to Claremont last year in the league race, returns Gabe Ramirez, Raul Valdovinos and Ricky Davis. Garey, returns last year's Viking MVP in Peter Manzo.

Poly signs two more JC stars for football

Cal Poly has announced the signings of two more junior college football players.

Offensive tackle Dean Reese of Southwestern College and flanker Mark Sanders of L.A. Harbor, younger brother of the Broncos' Scott Sanders, signed letters of intent with coach Andy Vinci and are enrolling for the winter quarter.

Reese, a 6-foot-3, 260-pounder, was named to the All-Mission Conference and was selected Southwestern's Most Valuable Player. He prepped at Mar Vista High School in Chula Vista.

"It's not too many times that you see a lineman earn as many honors as Reese has," Vinci said. "To achieve those, Dean had to work hard to be the best. That's what we want here at Poly . . . the best."

Mark Sanders is a 6-foot-1, 180 pound flanker. A graduate of Miraleste High, Sanders was an all-league selection. His older brother, Scott, was an All-California Collegiate Athletic Association choice as a safety for Poly.

Since Scott will be back next season for his senior campaign, Poly will have a brother act.

"We felt Scott was an excellent football player when we recruited him," Vinci said, "and we feel the same way about his brother. Mark has the talent to play in the CCAA and we expect big things out of him next season."

Lonnie Carr of Chaffey and Royal Johnson of San Diego Mesa previously signed with Poly.

Cagers open in Hacienda

San Dimas, with its well-coached and disciplined type of game, will probably once again be led by forward Steve Brahs, who averages 19.7 markers an outing.

The Saints haven't seen any intersquad action since the San Dimas Tournament of Champions three weeks ago. They'll be entering league play with a 1-6 record.

The other S.D. starters include guards Allen Hanson and Billy Childress and forwards Larry Hanson nd Richard Burke.

The dew point is the temperature at which moisture in the air begins to condense.

Perhaps the air doesn't seem damp at all. It does, however, have many tiny, invisible bits of water moving about in it. We call these tiny specks of moisture "water vapor."

Throughout the day, evaporation draws moisture into the air from the oceans, lakes, and streams. Plants also give out water.

Cold air cannot hold as much moisture as warm air. When the air reaches the dew point, or below the temperature at which it can no longer hold all the moisture present, the moisture leaves the air and begins to condense on things.

The dampness of the cold air may cling to tiny specks of dust in the air and form fog or clouds.

At night, the chilled leaves of plants may cool the air that touches them.

When the air is chilled below its dew point, it leaves some of its wetness on the plants as dewdrops.

2—Personals

Dear Santa:
You forgot to remember Grandmother this Christmas. We included her name on our list and in our prayers. We asked you to bring someone nice to live with her in her mobile home in Montclair. Someone who doesn't smoke, drink, or swear. Someone who hasn't forgotten how to laugh and that would be good company for her. She's so easy to love, Santa. She's a young 75 she's not an invalid; she just doesn't get around like she use to since she had a stroke a couple of years ago. She needs help with cooking and keeping the trailer straightened up, but mostly, she needs warm friendship. Grandmother has been living with my aunts (Mom and Dad both work) but Grandmother wants so to move back to her own home. She isn't rich, Santa. She can only afford $100 a month, plus room and board. Would you see what you can do, Santa? You can call Mom after 5:30 in the evenings, Monday through Friday at 624-9347.
Johnny, Debby and Deanna

NEED wife and mother for 2 boys and 2 girls, have home, will marry. James. 628-5032.
